2 killed, 1 injured

Two Granite City youths were killed and a third was injured seriously at 6:40 a.m. Saturday when the car in which they were riding ran off the highway and crashed into a parked tractor-trailer unit on Interstate-55, three miles north of Lexington, Ill.

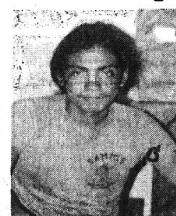

Dead are Brandon Michael Scanlan, 18, of 1725 Maple Ave., and Henry D. Garcia, 18, of 1821 Maple Ave.

The third youth, Gary George, 19, of 1741 Walnut Ave., was reported in satisfactory condition today after initially being listed as critical at St. James Hospital in Pontiac, Ill. Illinois State police reported the three youths were in the same car heading north on I-55 when the car went off the roadway and struck the left rear end of a tractor-trailer truck that was parked on the shoulder due to motor problems.

Officials said the auto the youths were in was so demolished they were unable to tell who was driving. The auto was owned by George.

Larry Cooper, deputy coroner of McLean County, pronounced the youths dead at the scene. Mr. Scanlan was born and reared in Granite City and had been employed for a laborer at NL Industries. He was a member of St.

Joseph Catholic Church. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale (Maria) Stogdill of Granite City, and one brother, Matthew Mark Scanlan of Granite City.

Mr. Garcia also was born and reared in Granite City and was a member of St. Joseph Church. He was unemployed.

Mr. Garcia is survived by his parents, Daniel G. and Linda Garcia of Granite City; one brother, Gregory Garcia of Granite City, and three sisters, Lisa, Sarita and Laura Garcia, all of Granite City.

Joint funeral services are being held today. Details are given in today's obituary column.

PRIEST'S CAR RECOVERED
At 1:44 a.m. today, Madison County sheriff's deputies found a 1962 Chevrolet on St. Thomas Lane. The auto had been reported stolen to Pontoon Beach police at 10 p.m. Sunday.

The car belonged to the Rev. Peter Stamboldjiev, pastor of the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Orthodox Church, 1300 Grand Ave., Madison. The car was parked near the priest's residence at 4053 Gaslight Walk when it was stolen.

Fireworks Tuesday

Bursting two-and-three-break shells, scattering cascades of brilliant colored stars high above the tree tops in Wilson Park at 9 p.m. Tuesday, will climax the 19th annual Fourth of July celebration, sponsored by the Granite City Park District.

Thousands of residents from communities around Granite City once again are expected to converge on Wilson Park and vicinity when the exploding announcer bombs signal the time of the mammoth fireworks display is approaching on Tuesday night.

More than 20,000 viewed the pyrotechnic exhibition last year.

Jury told of weekly payments by taverns

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer

With the trial of three Madisonians resuming at 11 a.m. today at the federal court in Alton, government prosecutors concentrated Friday on Madison tavern owners, eliciting testimony on alleged solicitation for and payment of bribes.

Mrs. Jenny Huey again refused to testify regarding allegations of payments by her former tavern — despite a sentence of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for refusal to testify.

But some of the other tavern proprietors told the jury they made weekly payments in return for toleration of such law violations as liquor sales after the legal closing hour.

Mrs. Huey had been taken Thursday afternoon to a federal work-release-type facility at Warrenton, Mo., but was returned to Alton during the lunchbreak Friday. She was not brought into the courtroom and her attorney, William Smith, indicated she still declined to offer testimony.

She was taken back to Warrenton, but sources indicated she will be returned to court today to determine if she has decided to testify.

Mrs. Norma Bosworth, former owner of Norma's Tavern in Madison, said she opened the tavern in May 1974 after purchasing it from Minnie Brown. Mrs. Bosworth testified Mrs. Brown told her she could stay open late if she "paid off."

Mrs. Bosworth said she was approached by two officers who asked her to pay them. She said she went outside and Grzywacz, Gocian and Krieschok for the in the police car. She said that for $50 a week, she was promised "protection."

The amount was later "upped to $60," when officers spoke to her husband, driving him around the block one time in a squad car, she testified.

She said she paid the fee until Mrs. Huey's Big Benny's Little Place was raided, and then stopped making payments. She said she learned about the raid in the newspaper. She later stated, "All my trouble started when the payoffs stopped."

Mrs. Bosworth also said that when first asked for money, she was told she would have to pay a certain amount of money "to a cause." She stated they did not call her what "cause" the money would be used for.

Asked if she liked staying open late, Mrs. Bosworth responded, "I made money." Asked if she liked paying off officers, she responds "not especially."

Under cross-examination, she admitted she did not give the FBI the names of the men who solicited money from her, but told them about "three men she couldn't name." It was noted she used the names Grzywacz, Gocian and Krieschok for the first time in September 1977.

The defense attorney for Grzywacz, Norman London, attempted to draw the implication that she named the defendants in return for permission to sell her tavern, since the city's liquor license commissioner, Mayor Mike Saasz, had denied her permission to sell the business while her liquor license was suspended.

Mrs. Bosworth's husband, Frank Bosworth, testified just before his wife. He alleged that about June 1974, soon after the tavern opened, Gocian called him outside, asked him to get in a Madison squad car, drove him around the block, and said the tavern owed $60 a week.

In cross-examination, Bosworth testified he did not tell the FBI Sept. 16, 1977, about the amount of money allegedly requested by police.

Krieschok's defense attorney, Lawrence Fleming, asserted that Krieschok had paid Mr. Bosworth in jail in the past "for

Rape conviction 'revolving door'

A 24-year-old local resident was convicted Thursday of rape and armed violence in a jury trial that lasted four days in the Third Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Some of those present objected to the immediate release on bond of the defendant. They criticized such "revolving door" custody, and also were disturbed by what they regarded as other spectators' intimidation of jurors as they left.

A jury of eight women and four men had deliberated for an hour and 50 minutes before finding Jerry L. McCabe, 3300 Central Lane, guilty of raping and using armed violence against a 20-year-old Granite City girl.

She was attacked Feb. 27 in the front parking area at Granite City High School South.

After being convicted, McCabe was released by Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr on payment of $1,000 cash bond. The amount was added to a $1,000 cash bond on which he had been free prior to going to trial.

Sentencing will be pronounced in about 30 days and could result in up to 30 years in the penitentiary, it was indicated.

Immediately after the jury was released, a scene developed inside the hallway of the Madison County Courthouse and also outside the building, caused by a group of men alleged to be friends of McCabe.

The men yelled obscenities at the departing jurors and also at Detective Sergeant Don Knight of the Granite City Police Department, who has been credited with solving the case.

Madison County State's Attorney Stephanie Robbins, the successful prosecutor, also was the target of abusive and obscene remarks.

A witness to the aftermath of the trial at the courthouse said, "Those women (on the jury) were really frightened and walked each other to their cars outside. It was a very, bad scene."

Det. Sgt. Knight confronted two of McCabe's alleged friends in an effort to halt the invective being shouted at jurors, and to caution them about any future disturbances. But the obscene remarks continued.

There were no other police officers around at the time, it was learned from the prosecuting attorney.

The Granite City girl was attending college credit classes at South High the night she was attacked.

She was walking to class near the Memorial Gymnasium when an assailant struck her on the head with a steel object and grabbed her by the throat, dragging her to the rear of the parking area.

Unable to free herself from the attacker, the girl was forced into the back seat of a vehicle, pushed down and partially

Clean downtown area emphasized

With cooperation by all segments of the Granite City municipal government, new emphasis is to be placed on keeping the downtown business district neat and clean.

"Keeping the area clean involves both merchants and government," Edward F. Reiske, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice-president, said today. "There is a meeting of minds on what is going to be done on a weekly basis, starting within the next couple of weeks."

"Lionel Portell, street superintendent, is now busy making up 'No Parking' signs that will be posted in the downtown area. There will be no parking from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. every Tuesday."

"He is also asking — in fact, insisting — that every merchant sweep down the sidewalk on Monday evening — or wash, if they prefer — into the gutter."

"Then on Tuesday mornings while there are no cars parked, the street sweeper will sweep it all away."

"The cleanup campaign is now a reality and it is going to be done on a continuous basis, but the Street Department must have the cooperation of all merchants and businesses if it is going to work."

"The department will sweep from Adams Street to Madison Avenue, and from 18th to 21st streets, which will cover nearly all of the downtown business section."

"The Street Department is asking for the merchants' full cooperation, which we feel quite sure it will get."

Slater is presently serving as first vice-president of the Granite City Rotary Club and was the fall 1977 United Way chairman for a special United donor division.

"Darryl was successful in increasing his division's giving goal by nearly 22 percent last year, adding three thousand new dollars to last year's total campaign."

Man, 25, slain

Vernie Lee Hufstetler Sr., 25, of 2009 Bryan Ave., was shot and killed during an argument with a friend in the 2000 block of Bryan Avenue about 3:45 a.m. Sunday.

Terry Gargac, 28, of 2005 Bryan Ave., has allegedly admitted shooting Hufstetler in self-defense and Gargac has been released without charges being filed, pending further investigation by Granite City police detectives.

Construction of the garage began in August 1977 and is part of an $18 million renovation and expansion project at the hospital.

The present main visitor parking lot will be closed on Thursday, July 6, to accommodate new construction.

Mr. Hufstetler suffered 22 caliber shots to his chest and left arm outside Gargac's mobile home. Gargac alleged the two, who were friends, had an earlier disagreement and Mr. Hufstetler approached the mobile home with a shotgun.

Gargac told police he shot about three times over Mr. Hufstetler's head before Mr. Hufstetler pointed the shotgun at him and Gargac then fired two shots at the victim.

The disagreement began when the two men were in Mr. Hufstetler's auto at 2:40 a.m. Sunday and Gargac became angry and pulled the driver between the bucket seats while the car was in motion, police said.

Mr. Hufstetler lost control and the car struck a utility pole in front of Granite City Trust and Savings Bank's walk-up window on Delmar Avenue at FIRST PARAMEDIC in the immediate Illinois metropolitan area, Matt Gasparovic, is seen at the driver's door of one of the Granite City ambulances. He is the first person to be certified by the state as a paramedic in this area. Gasparovic completed six months of training at the St. Louis University medical center. He was an emergency medical technician (EMT) for the city ambulance service prior to being certified as a paramedic. The main difference between the two emergency personnel is that a paramedic can administer 30 types of "emergency" drugs in addition to using various pieces of equipment for the diagnosing of injuries other than visible injuries.

Sasyk denies conflict on vending machines in taverns; former tavern owner says he paid police $30 weekly

Madison's city government was in the spotlight during part of Thursday's proceedings in the trial of three 1970-74 Madison policemen, Ronald Grzywacz, now 41, Richard Krieschok, 49, and Edward Goclan, 36.

Mayor Mike Sasyk strongly denied any conflict of interest between his regulation of taverns and his provision of machines used in such establishments. He has been associated with vending machine businesses for many years.

Sasyk also stressed his opposition to past tavern-related law violations, blaming them on unauthorized lenience by others.

Grzywacz, currently a Madison alderman, is being defended by Attorney Norman London of St. Louis. Attorney Carmen Durso of Belleville is representing Goclan, and Lawrence Fleming of St. Louis is the defense attorney for Krieschok.

Mayor Sasyk, who had testified for a short time Wednesday, testified Thursday that he considered Grzywacz a political opponent during the 1970 to 74 period under investigation.

Under cross-examination, Sasyk said a company in which he is a partner, Madison Amusement Co., has game, vending and bowling machines in most taverns in Madison.

Attorney London asked if Sasyk feels there may be a conflict of interest in having profit-making game and vending machines in taverns while Sasyk, as ex-officio liquor license commissioner, is responsible for revoking tavern licenses in instances of prostitution, gambling, violence or other abuses of the licenses, including late closing of taverns.

Sasyk denied the allegation of a conflict. A spokesman for the mayor later said he thought the question had been researched previously and no conflict, in law, was found.

Sasyk said the city in 1971 reduced tavern closing hours from 4 a.m. daily to 1 a.m. weekdays and 2 a.m. on weekends.

He said he told police to use their good judgment in closing taverns, but to give them a 15 or 20-minute "grace period" to get all customers out.

Under London's cross-examination, Sasyk said he recalled a raid at the Croatian Home when police found former Chief of Police Frank Dutko, the city treasurer and a couple of aldermen inside after closing hours.

London contended there was "somehow of a stink raised" by the raid, which was followed by the resignation of the policeman who led the raid, Peter Kosteki, about two days later.

Sasyk denied that pressure had been brought to bear on Kosteki over the incident.

London also asked Mayor Sasyk if he was opposed to Grzywacz, Goclan and Krieschok because they were attempting to "unionize" the police department. Sasyk responded, "I did not know, and it did not bother me."

Sasyk, 56, next was asked if there was a "lug" or political contribution required of city employees and Sasyk said, "That was before I was elected."

He took office in July 1970. The mayor said he does not get $3 a month from city employees. Of that, $2 goes to the United Way and $1 covers food and beverages at functions for city employees.

He also testified that officials and department heads are requested to contribute to a political reelection fund.

London asked Sasyk if he told a federal grand jury investigating Madison County officials that he would not discuss Sheriff John Maeras because he was Sasyk's friend.

The mayor responded, "Yes, I said I did not want to discuss the county. It's not my jurisdiction. I just don't repeat any conversations I have with anyone else."

Sasyk denied discussing the federal grand jury or FBI probe of the county at length with Maeras.

London questioned, "Are you telling me you have not discussed the case with Maeras?"

Mayor Sasyk answered, "We discussed it. One time, 10 times, 20 times. I don't know. It didn't bother me that much. I talked to him yesterday (Wednesday)."

Sasyk said his brother, who also is his partner in the Madison Amusement Co., had helped Jenny Huey get a loan at a bank to get Big Jenny's Little Place started.

He said the aid was through the corporation and he does not know if the corporation gave any other aid to Jenny Huey. Sasyk noted that he permanently revoked her liquor license due to a 1974 prostitution raid and a previous incident involving a 16-year-old girl prostitute. The mayor said Mrs. Huey's husband has opened another tavern outside of the city limits, where the mayor has no jurisdiction.

Sasyk estimated during the questioning that his firm has 60 or 70 vending and game machines in Madison.

Asked why at least seven police officers have resigned during his term as mayor since 1970, Sasyk said, "They all said they left for better-paying jobs."

Sasyk also was asked by London if he felt officers allowed taverns to stay open too late under the "grace period" he ordered. Sasyk replied, "I do not stay up that late."

During questioning by Cass Weiland, assistant U.S. attorney, Sasyk said he "never criticized Goclan, Grzywacz or Krieschok about closing hours."

Sasyk also said that during his term as mayor and liquor control commissioner, he has ordered six taverns closed permanently but all have reopened under new owners.

Charles Lofink, former owner of Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant & Lounge in Madison, testified that officers approached him and "said for a reasonable or small amount, they would let us stay open. We discussed $30 a week, but settled on $3 a week."

He said Grzywacz, Goclan and Mrs. Huey were present when it was discussed.

Lofink also said he was under the understanding that payment of $30 a week would allow him to stay open until 4 a.m.

He said he agreed to take money to Big Jenny's to be picked up there by officers. He paid for two weeks, but then stopped, he testified.

"I didn't feel it was right and I didn't want to do it," Lofink stated.

Afterward, he was warned several times by Grzywacz and Goclan to observe closing hours but was never arrested for violating them, he said.

Lofink also testified that he lied to the FBI, but told the truth to a federal grand jury about the alleged payoff.

Asked by Attorney London if Sasyk had discouraged his plans to divide the bar and restaurant with a partition, Lofink said he did not recall any such statement by the mayor.

London then read a copy of the transcript from the grand jury proceedings which showed Lofink testified that the mayor told him a closing time or "dance" "won't be around long."

Madison Patrolman Thomas Loski admitted accepting free food and drinks from Lofink at Ralph & Charlie's, but only amounting to a value of $20 to $25 per year.

"He never asked for anything and I never offered anything," Loski stated.

For the short time he was gone, Grzywacz and Goclan approached him and Grzywacz showed him a list of about six taverns, stating, "This is how many they are going to pay."

After each tavern was a number and a dollar sign, Loski said.

"They told me my share would be $60 a week," he testified.

"I said I wanted no part of it. They could do what they want," he told the jury.

He said he put the list of taverns and amounts in a dresser drawer, but it was lost when the family moved.

Loski also alleged that he stopped in a squad car near Big Jenny's once and Mrs. Huey came out, held out a fist and said, "Do you want this, or should I give it to Ron?" Loski said he told her to "give it to Ron."

He said her fist was closed and he did not see what was inside.

He said that one other time he was on duty and stopped to have a small beer at Big Jenny's and Grzywacz and Mrs. Huey kept insisting he go out back "with a girl in the tavern."

Loski said he finally took the girl out back, told her they were just going to stand there for about two minutes, and then return to the tavern. He said they did and he was "kidded" for the short time he was gone.

Loski said that one night, Grzywacz and Goclan approached him and Grzywacz showed him a list of about six taverns, stating, "This is how premises the first time he warned the new owner to observe closing hours."

He said he reported the incident to Mayor Sasyk. London asked him if Sasyk had helped him and Loski responded by saying, "I'm still barred."

London asked why Loski never notified the chief of police, Frank Dutko, of incidents he described, and Loski said, "I did not think I could trust him."

Asked why the information had not been turned over to the FBI or some other agency, Loski responded, "I have to work with these men in a police situation. I have to trust them and they have to trust me."

He said he and Grzywacz once had a fistfight at the Madison police station after Grzywacz found him in Ralph & Charlie's a short time after closing hours and "hassled" him about it.

"I just lost my temper," Loski recalled.

The officer also stated he paid a "lug" when the late Stephen Maeras was mayor, but did it voluntarily.

He said he doesn't now pay a lug, except for $3 or $4 per month for charitable gifts and insurance.

He also pays to "the Madison Police Club" and has given political donations through his business, Voloski Catering Service, he testified.

Holiday eye care

If fireworks cause an eye injury, it's important to get prompt treatment.

Treating eye injuries yourself may lead to permanent damage, according to emergency eye care nurses at the University of Illinois Hospital.

On the Fourth of July, we get many fireworks-related eye injuries. Many of these cases are made worse by improper first aid," said Pat Radzewicz, head nurse of the Emergency Eye Care Unit.

When people play with fireworks, objects which can become stuck in the eye are hurled in many directions.

People who suffer an eye injury should immediately seek professional help and should not try to do anything themselves," she emphasized today.

According to Merija Skretullis, head nurse of the Pediatric Eye Care Unit, the worst thing people can do is cover the eye or try to remove the object.

"They could force the object deeper into the eye. This could puncture the eye beyond the cornea and lead to an eye infection or permanent loss of the eye."

Both nurses point out that fireworks are not the only things that will cause eye injuries over the Fourth of July holiday.

People get eye injuries from fights, car accidents, BB guns and participation in sports. Objects can be hurled into eyes during use of lawnmowers or nylon-cord grass trimming devices, it was noted. And cookout artists have been known to accidentally squirt charcoal lighter fluid into their eyes.

With a chemical injury, such as lighter fluid, the eye should be flushed out with plenty of cold water," Mrs. Skretullis said. "Then the injured person should get immediate emergency eye care."

A rare eye mishap, but one that has been increasing in frequency, according to Miss Radzewicz, is burning of the eyes brought on by reading a book in bright sunlight.

"Often, people are not aware that the white pages of a book reflect the rays of the sun, and the eyes can be burned while reading without sunglasses," she said.

Both nurses agree that the best way to avoid eye injuries is to use proper precautions. They suggest not using illegal fireworks, the wearing of sunglasses while reading in bright sunlight, taking care when using lighter fluid, and wearing safety glasses when using power mowers or trimmers.

"Above all," Miss Skretullis said, "if an eye injury does occur, get to an emergency eye care unit. Except for flushing the eye in chemical injuries, doing nothing is better than doing anything that may permanently damage the eye."

Couldn't use competing jukebox, couldn't sell tavern — Mrs. Bosworth

The issue of a possible conflict of interest with Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk controlling liquor licenses in the city while profiting from vending machines and game machines in taverns was a subject for the second consecutive day Friday during the federal trial of three former Madison policemen in Alton.

Mrs. Norma Bosworth, former owner of Norma's Tavern in Madison, alleged during her cross-examination that Sasyk controlled both the machines in her tavern and her liquor license. He also prohibited her from selling her tavern for several months early this year, she stated.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Bosworth testified that she took over ownership of the Madison tavern in May 1974 when she purchased it from Minnie Brown of Madison.

She said Mayor Sasyk, the executive liquor control commissioner of the city, had revoked her liquor license several times when there had been trouble in the tavern. On Jan. 4, 1977, the license was permanently revoked and Mrs. Bosworth attempted to sell the tavern, jurors were told.

She said Sasyk told her she could not sell it for one year, under state law, since the license had been revoked.

She added that she lived almost without income until July of this year, when Mrs. Brown said she had checked and found Mrs. Bosworth did not have to wait a year and could sell the tavern.

Game and vending machines, including a jukebox, pool table and cigarette machine in the tavern, were supplied by Madison Amusement Co., which is officially owned by Sasyk's brother, but in which the mayor allegedly has an interest, she testified.

Mrs. Bosworth, who also said she had a "foesball" table from the Sasyk firm for a time, alleged Sasyk controlled the machine distribution in the city. "I knew that you couldn't bring another one (jukebox) in town, because I tried. My husband tried to get another one."

"We used only Sasyk's machines," she stated. Asked by defense attorney Norman London if Mrs. Bosworth felt Sasyk controlled her tavern, she stated, "Sir, he had control over it the day I bought it."

London then stated, "He controlled your license, and he controlled your machines." Mrs. Bosworth also testified Friday that during her interview with the FBI, "I was very hostile toward (discussing) Mayor Sasyk."

Police take license at lounge here

Granite City police seized the liquor license of the Barrel Restaurant, 19th Street and Delmar Avenue after arresting the bartender at 2:30 a.m. today and charging him with violation of tavern closing hours.

Tim S. Sloss, 19, of 2817 Fortune Drive, was allegedly behind the bar when officers entered and found about eight to 10 patrons still inside.

The police first stopped when they saw two young men drinking beer on the sidewalk near the entrance. The two were warned and put their beers in a trash can, so they were released.

Police then entered the tavern and arrested the bartender, Nelson Hedger Sr., co-owner of the lounge and restaurant, who was contacted and brought to the police station where police held it.

Hedger posted $100 cash bond for Sloss, who was released. Hedger was to meet with Mayor Paul Schuler, the city's liquor license commissioner, today to discuss the status of the liquor license.

Keep pets indoors on Fourth of July
Pets in the Granite City area should be kept indoors Tuesday afternoon and evening due to excessive noise from the Fourth of July fireworks display at Wilson Park and illegal fireworks being exploded in the city limits.

Frequently, pets exposed to the loud sounds connected with fireworks become frenzied and more dogs and cats, scared by the unusual noise, are missing after the Fourth of July than at any other time of the year, it was learned.

Dogs unable to be brought indoors should be penned securely or kept under proper restraint on the Fourth of July.

Speed limits set in Anchorage area

An ordinance creating a 15-mile-per-hour speed limit in five street areas and prohibiting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks in those same areas was enacted by the City Council last week.

The new law affects East 24th Street from 2831 to 2833, the 2000 block of East 25th Street, the 2300 and 2400 blocks of Anchorage Drive, the 2000 block of Edwards Street, and the 2000 and 2400 blocks of Winters Drive.

It was noted that all of the streets are located within the Anchorage Homes area and will not extensively affect through traffic.

Alderman Roy Poulos questioned the prohibition of bicycle riding on the sidewalks in those areas and asked: "Are we going to force the kids on their bicycles into the streets where they might be hit?"

Alderman Glen Sprankle remarked that an accident under those circumstances "could make the city liable."

Everett Morien, alderman of the First Ward, told the council that he had talked with some of the neighborhood residents at the Anchorage Homes and was told that bicycle riders frequently run into elderly people or make walking difficult.

The ordinance limiting traffic speed was designed only for that specific section to protect elderly persons living at Anchorage, Morien said. Alderman Charles Douglas said he believed the ordinance was all right, but that he can see "a problem in enforcing it. Are we going to station a policeman there to check on it?"

In a related incident, Alderman Ronald Coleman asked that the Traffic Committee study a request by residents on Amos Avenue and East Oaks Drive that a traffic stop be created on Amos at North Street.

Coleman made the request after petition bearing 28 signatures was submitted to the council. The petition said traffic congestion made it dangerous for children of the neighborhood.

The council last week also approved a plan for providing Park Addition No. 7 for subdividing 16 lots for home construction. The area is located along Yale Drive north of Felling Road.

Alderman Glen Sprankle questioned whether or not drainage would be adequate. City Engineer Monroe Brewer said the subdivided area would be served by drainage improvements planned in the Development funds. He said he contemplated difficulty with drainage from the proposed subdivision.

The "Southern Illinoisian" in Carbondale has been named the official state newspaper following competitive bidding administered by the state Department of Administrative Services. The official paper prints all legal notices for the state and requests for contract bids by state agencies, boards, commissions and state universities. The Southern Illinoisian will serve as the state newspaper until June 30, 1979.

Illinois Department of Conservation grants to local government units for development of snowmobile trails will be awarded Oct. 1. The department last week said the deadline for submitting grant applications will be July 31.

The Illinois frog season is in full swing and will continue through August 31. The state Department of Conservation calls for "a highly popular sport" and notes that an Illinois license is required for frogs (except those under 16, over 65 or disabled). The "bag limit" is eight frogs per day.

Plans for the future of rail freight service in Illinois will be held at five locations throughout the state from July 6 to 13. Hearings will be held in Quincy, July 6; Carbondale, July 7; Ottawa, July 11; Urbana, July 12; and Springfield, July 13. Additional information is available from the Department of Transportation Bureau of Planning, (217) 782-2755.

Vacation week at Nestle Co.
Approximately 185 employees of the Nestle, Inc., plant at 2101 Adams St., were given one week "layoff" notices Friday, but plant officials said the temporary shutdown is routine and is not due to economic conditions.

Roger Higgins, plant manager, said the layoff is effective at midnight Friday when the plant was shut down, were given to all employees to give them simultaneous vacation time.

Preliminary reports indicate several persons entered the tavern and announced a robbery. It is believed that St. Louis police after the incident and four others are in custody in St. Louis.

Brooklyn officer shot
Jerome Young, 29, assistant police chief of Brooklyn, was shot several times by armed robbers at Garrett's Lounge in Brooklyn about 4:15 a.m. today and is in critical condition in St. Mary's Hospital in Clayton, Mo.

Illinois Division of Investigation (DOI) officers said this morning they are still "putting together the pieces" of the incident, but said one man was killed in a gunfight with St. Louis police after the incident and four others are in custody in St. Louis.

Preliminary reports indicate several persons entered the tavern and announced a robbery. It is believed that St. Louis police after the incident and four others are in custody in St. Louis.

ONK'S BURGLARIZED
An unknown caller at 2:00 a.m. Saturday notified police that Onk's Drive-In Liquor, 2600 Madison Ave., had the front windows broken. On arrival, authorities found both front windows, valued at $444, broken, with beer and liquor scattered over the driveway. The thieves entered the building and left the beer cooler open. George Greve, owner of the store, told police he would take an inventory and advise them as to what was taken.

News notes

Gov. James R. Thompson last week announced that Illinois was ending its fiscal year June 30 "in the black" after three years of deficit spending by the state. "This administration has kept its promise to balance the budget with no new taxes," the governor said. "We did it by holding our spending within our income."

Shelter care facilities will receive a $26 per month increase in payments for Illinois Public Aid recipients, effective July 1. The Department of Public Aid will pay $14.40 of the $26 increase, with the remaining $11.60 to be paid by the federal government. "This will help keep people out of nursing homes and permit them to remain independent as long as possible," Gov. Thompson said.

The Illinois Council on Aging has re-elected Marshall Holleb, a Chicago attorney, as its president. He will serve from 1978-79 fiscal year State Plan on Aging. The plan outlines objectives for senior citizens' programs in Illinois.

The "Southern Illinoisian" in Carbondale has been named the official state newspaper following competitive bidding administered by the state Department of Administrative Services. The official paper prints all legal notices for the state and requests for contract bids by state agencies, boards, commissions and state universities. The Southern Illinoisian will serve as the state newspaper until June 30, 1979.

Keith March, 70, found dead

Keith Russell "Russ" March, 70, of 2817 Highway 3, Granite City, was found dead at 10:15 p.m. Sunday in a wooded area near Nutwood, Ill., north of Grafton.

Mr. March and his wife, Mrs. Eunice March, were spending the holiday weekend at their mobile home near Nutwood, when Mr. March failed to return home after going for a walk.

A search was made and Mr. March was discovered lying in the woods in the vicinity of the house trailer, having suffered an apparent heart attack.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by the Jersey County coroner. An inquiry is pending. Born in Greene County, Ill., Mr. March was a resident of Jerseyville until coming to Granite City about 20 years ago. He was a retired salesman and a veteran of World War I.

Besides his wife, Mr. March is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George March of Alton; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Evelyn Belmer of East Leroy, Mich., Mrs. Viola Weidner of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Shirley Craft of British Honduras; three stepsons, Ewing Thomas of Granite City, Kenneth Thomas of Southeast, Mich., and Elvin Thomas of Staunton; two brothers, Harvey March of Eldridge, Ill., and Fred March of Columbia, Mo.; two sisters, 13 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Available details are given in today's obituary column.

Mrs. Cookson dies at home

Mrs. Deloris Huett Cookson, 66, of 2104 Nameoki Road, 13, died of cancer, was pronounced dead at home at 11 a.m. Sunday by Randall Irwin, Madison County deputy coroner.

She was born in Malden, Mo., and resided for many years in Paulina, Mo., before moving to this area one and one-half years ago.

Survivors include her husband, Homer Cookson; three sons, Bob Huett of Bridgeport, Mo., Jack Huett of Granite City, and Gary Huett of St. Charles, Mo.; one brother, Arthur Smith of Eugene, Ore.; two sisters, Mrs. Delpha Grimes of West Beach, Calif., Mrs. Elvina McGinnis of Luxora, Ark.; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Services Thursday

Funeral services will be held at noon Thursday at an East St. Louis funeral home for Elsie Hudson, 62, of East St. Louis, a retired employee of American Steel Foundries in Granite City. Mr. Hudson died Thursday at home. Survivors include two sisters.

being drunk," and that Mrs. Bosworth had problems in the tavern on several occasions which called for the police to come in, including fights, drunken and other problems.

Grandson Delaney, owner of Granddaddy's Tavern in Madison, testified that "Big Jen" called her about the closing hours shortly after 1 a.m. Closing was adopted and said that "by paying off, I could stay open to 4 a.m. I told her nothing was too small and it would not work," Mrs. Delaney stated.

Questioned by London, Mrs. Delaney said "Big Jen" was going to contact all of the taverns "about the deal," but said Mrs. Huett did not talk about organizing all of the taverns into a group to fight the closing hours.

"She implied each tavern would pay so much a week, but didn't say where it was going. I thought the police on the third night shift would receive the money," Mrs. Delaney testified.

Lucille Whiteside, owner of Lucy's Lounge in Madison, said she did not know anything about the raid on Big Jen's and had bypassed the on-duty officers, including Golan. "It's possible," was the reply.

The deputy obtained help from the Madison Police in conducting the raid. Transcripts of federal grand jury proceedings in the case of Kriesch and Golan appeared were read for the jury Friday.

Both denied taking payoffs from numerous taverns the state named or from a massage parlor.

Both said they had not heard rumors of Madison officers using narcotics or of any missing drugs from the department's evidence area. They said they hadn't heard of the 606 Detective Agency or of the St. Louis Organization. They said they didn't know of threats or any suggestions they not cooperate with federal authorities.

Golan told the grand jury he quit the police department because he "had enough of politics," and said other officers were "stabbing me in the back because he was in line for promotion to sergeant."

Golan said he owned a race horse for a time, but never placed a race bet for anyone on the horse.

He said he knew that about 1975 Madison officers violated closing hours, "especially Ralph and Charlie's," and said he could not see favoritism to one, so "I let them all stay open."

Kriesch admitted to having been on duty occasionally at Ralph and Charlie's, and to receiving some whiskey or small gifts around Christmas each year from the Four Seasons Tavern and Tony and Joe's Tavern.

Testimony was to resume at 11 a.m. today, and the trial will be closed tomorrow for the Fourth of July holiday, it was announced. The prosecution is expected to rest its case today or Wednesday.

Possibly the most explosive testimony given Friday was when he admitted to telling the FBI that he believes many of the guns confiscated by deputies for evidence are missing. "I believe it's common knowledge," he stated, while admitting he did not personally know of any missing guns.

Attorney Carmen Durso, who represents Golan, asked Nizinski if Golan could have been a participant in the restaurant because Officer Paul Bargiel had not followed "proper procedure" in preparing the raid on Big Jen's and had bypassed the on-duty officers, including Golan. "It's possible," was the reply.

Law school approval hinges on funding of new structure

Continued accreditation for the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale School of Law is still in certain, though the school's design is still in the planning stages.

But Dean Hiram H. Lessor added that if Gov. James Thompson's bill approved by the legislature to fund construction of a new law school building, and if there are no unforeseen hitching, the American Bar Association is likely to at least continue the SIUC law school's provisional accreditation.

The ABA's accreditation committee, acting on the findings of an April inspection, ruled that the law school falls short of ABA standards for physical plant and library space, and that the school's design is still in the planning stages.

The letter also reminded university officials that the law school's five-year provisional accreditation expires next February, Lessor said.

Lessor, just back from a vacation, and SIUC President Warren W. Brant wrote the ABA June 28, saying the legislature passed a bill appropriating $7,500,000 for the building, and that the governor is not expected to sign the bill until some time in July.

Lessor said he is "cautiously optimistic" that Thompson will sign the bill. "Has never officially said he would sign it, but on the other hand he said he could not let the law school lose its accreditation," Lessor said. "And if he doesn't sign it, that's going to be the effect—loss of accreditation."

ABA accreditation is necessary for a law school's graduate to be eligible for bar examinations. The SIUC law school, which accepted its first class in the fall of 1972, received a five-year provisional accreditation in February 1974.

The school has been quartered in remodeled dormitory housing since it opened.

Initial planning money for the promised building ran out in September 1976, and no more funds were granted until this April, when Gov. Thompson promised $250,000 for further planning.

The $7,500,000 in construction was approved June 20 by the state House of Representatives.

It was asserted the rape victim made a positive identification of her attacker in a lineup and also identified the vehicle which was involved.

Among the elements entered into the conviction were blood from the victim's head, matching blood samples found on the victim's car, and the reporting of a blood sample by McCabe, Knight explained.

In addressing the jury, Attorney Robbins described McCabe as a "stalker."

"He stalked her like a rabbit and then conked her on the head," he said. "She described the victim as a very religious girl, young for her age, who has been brought up not to hurt anyone, even if they hurt her."

"Getting her attacker was among the finest police work I have seen, the prosecuting attorney told the Press-Record.

An armed vigilante charge still is pending against McCabe, who was arrested March 9 in Pontoon Beach for allegedly approaching a woman entering a car in the area of the 3000 block of Gaslight Walk.

Answering a report of a woman screaming, Pontoon Beach officers passed a vehicle leaving the area and noted the license number. They continued on to the area the woman had been heard screaming, and received a description of a man.

Cooperation between the Pontoon Beach officers and Sgt. Knight resulted in McCabe's arrest. He is free on a $5,000 bond in the Pontoon Beach case.

Informational documents against McCabe, filed in late March, set his bond in the South High case at $100,000, but Judge Barr reduced the bonds to $50,000 and then granted recognizances for $40,000 of the bonds which do not require the posting of cash.

For the remaining $10,000 of the bond, McCabe posted $1,000, or 10 percent, and was released. An additional $10,000 was added after the conviction, for which he paid a further $1,000.

A grandfather, Frank H. Hufstader, of Cottage Hills, Ill., was preceded in death by his father, Frank Howard Hufstader, a brother, Robert Allen Hufstader, and a sister, Rachel Hufstader.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Niedringhaus Avenue, according to police reports.

Gargac got out of the vehicle and to a nearby car and left the scene, it was alleged.

Mr. Hufstader suffered cuts to his face, but said at that time he did not know if they were the result of the accident or of Gargac striking him, according to authorities.

Authorities believe Mr. Hufstader, still angry from the accident, got a shotgun and went to Gargac's home, although the two had been friends for many years.

Gargac told police he heard squealing tires outside his mobile home and got a pistol from a closet to protect himself. The shooting then occurred as Mr. Hufstader approached the entrance to Gargac's home.

Neighbors reported hearing several shots and then seeing the victim lying on the lawn. Mr. Hufstader was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:45 a.m. Sunday.

Police found a shotgun about 50 feet from where Mr. Hufstader fell. It had not been fired, officers said.

Mr. Gargac was questioned by detectives and officers until 9:05 a.m. Sunday when he was released on the advice of an assistant state's attorney.

Both weapons were confiscated by police and are to undergo laboratory tests.

Mr. Hufstader was born in East St. Louis and also resided in Browning, Ind., before moving to this area 16 years ago.

It was a four-year employee of American Steel Foundries, and a member of the Steelworkers Union, Local 1063.

Mrs. Paulette (Ely) Hufstader, four children, Michael Lynn and Robert Steven Tombschek, Vernie Lee and Andrew Lee, Hufstader, all at home; three brothers, Frank James Hufstader, of Evansville, Ind., August Monroe Hufstader, Granite City, and John Amos Hufstader of Rantoul, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Marlene Ely Hall of Alton; his mother, Mrs. Norma Rozetta Hufstader of Alton, and who need and use United Way agencies and programs," Donovan said.

In addition to his business activities, United Way services, and service with the U.S. Army Transportation Corp. in Vietnam, Slater is a graduate of Southern Methodist College, Fayette, Mo.

Also attending the University of Tennessee and Western Kentucky University, Slater is a member of the National Steel Carriers Association board of directors and the junior advisory committee of the Missouri Athletic Club.

Slater is secretary of the Commercial Truck Maintenance Association, and a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Traffic and Highway Committee.

He is active in the Delta Nu Alpha national transportation fraternity and was founder of Delta Nu in 1972.

Discussing his appointment of Knollman to the Commercial Division 11 as chairman, Donovan said, "Dave's leadership qualities and his interest in the success of the local community and its service agencies will be major assets in this year's drive."

The division is a large and important one, and we are looking forward to spirited solicitation efforts during the October fund-raising period," Knollman, a native St. Louisan, moved to Granite City nine years ago. He attended Belmont High School and Washington University.

A past president of the Kaskaskia Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, he is a veteran of the Korean War and a member of Granite City Elks Lodge 1063.

Knollman has worked at First Granite City Savings for the past 10 years. He serves as vice-president and member of the board of directors.

He resides at 2340 Zippel with his wife, Pat, and their two daughters, Amy and Wendy. They are members of St. Margaret Mary Church.

Amish in state adapting— partially—to modern life

The Amish people, even those from the most conservative groups, are adapting to an increasingly complex industrial society, but doing so on their own terms.

That's the opinion of an Illinois Wesleyan University faculty member after living with an Amish family near Arthur, Ill., for the greater part of three months.

Dr. D. Paul Miller, professor of sociology and himself a product of the Amish tradition, spent nearly a year to find a family willing to let him live and work with them.

But when the series of polite "no" answers ended, the opportunity provided was a good one.

The family with which Miller spent Monday through Friday of every week is a member of the Old Order Amish, the most conservative religiously and in its general lifestyle of the four Amish-Mennonite groups in the Arthur area.

Yet the family operates a cabinet and woodworking shop that has 11 outside employees and is successful in the modern market place.

Miller lived with the family from Jan. 23 through April 14 while on sabbatical leave from IWU, Bloomington, where he has been a faculty member since 1960. He spent weekends at his home in Normal.

Miller has been a student of the Amish for many years, having written his master's thesis on the subject. He is a member of the Mennonite Church and his great-grandfather was an Old Order Amish minister.

He found the Amish in the middle of a re-examination. For years, the Amish were able to support themselves and maintain the isolation they cherished by farming. But a variety of reasons caused farming to reach its limit.

The rapidly growing U.S. industrial society made it increasingly difficult for a community to be completely self-sufficient.

"The Amish found an alternative and they turned to shops and stores and small businesses to provide jobs for the younger generation," Miller said. He pointed out that there are 94 shops and stores now in the Arthur Amish community.

"The land was farmed to the limit. Now the question is whether or not it will be 'shopped' to the limit. If shops reach a limit, the Amish, who have been clever and practical in adapting to changes, are likely to find another alternative."

"The Amish are learning to adapt to modern technology, but they want to do it on their own terms. They call the shops on what they use and when."

"They draw the line at their own places, and the line is drawn at the point of necessity," which is sometimes difficult to define.

"The Amish community needs a non-Amish city or town nearby in order to carry on normal operations," said Miller.

He lists many ways that the Amish people have shown their ingenuity in adapting to modern society.

Increased contact with the outside world because of the shift to reliance on shops rather than farming has made use of some items once considered too modern.

In business, automobiles and telephones are now used, but they are not owned by the Amish. They hire taxis and go to pay telephones.

Miller's employer handled orders for cabinets from as far away as Phoenix, Ariz.

Electricity from power line hookups is still not permitted in homes or shops, but diesel engines and air compressors provide alternative sources of needed power.

In the shop in which Miller worked, drills, saws, grinders, staplers, sanders and paint sprayers were used.

The Amish have bonded together to face skyrocketing medical costs.

Costs of medical treatment are assessed against the entire community.

And point of necessity has forced them to adopt liability insurance for their buggies used on highways.

Amish children, Miller noted, are permitted a time during adolescence during which their parents tend to ignore some deviations from their stringent rules.

During this span the youths often adopt practices common to the outside world but prohibited to members of the Amish church.

Some, presumably, stay with the so-called modern way of life but most return to the old ways and seem to be more satisfied with the Amish ways because they have "gotten it out of their system."

One youngster in the Arthur area, for instance, had an eight-track tape deck in his carpeted bedroom and wore a digital watch. Occasionally, others will own a car for a period of time, wear regular clothing and get non-Amish haircuts.

The outside society makes its adjustments to the Amish in the Arthur area.

Education is a good example, Miller believes.

The Amish have had problems with the public school system, particularly since the time of consolidation. They do not like their young children exposed to the temptations of the outside world.

Representatives of the church and the public school system in Arthur have worked together and created a school system in which students are taught in basically separate schools.

There are public schools aimed at teaching the Amish, and public schools aimed at teaching the other children of the community.

There are still, however, six parochial schools in the area, staffed by Amish and generally not certified by the state.

About half the Amish children attend the parochial schools. Most Amish children withdraw from school at the age of 14.

The Amish have won recent court cases giving them some exceptional treatment.

Chief Justice Warren Burger, writing for the majority of the U.S. Supreme Court in a school case involving the Amish, put it this way:

"There can be no assumption that today's majority is right and the Amish and others like them are wrong."

"A way of life that is odd or even erratic, but interferes with no rights or interests of others, is not to be condemned because it is different."

Being different, such as not having television sets and other forms of modern recreation, does have definite benefits, Miller observed.

"They've developed the art of conversation. They've developed an appreciation for small favors; an appreciation for the little things," Miller said.

And when Decatur and other large cities were paralyzed by the loss of electricity during ice storms last winter, the effect on the Amish was minimal.

Wesleyan students will benefit from Miller's experience directly as well as indirectly. During the 1979 January short term, he will teach a new course, "Amish Society: An Alternative Lifestyle."

Miller also is planning to write a book about his experience.

Slate to handle school workmen benefit cases

The Granite City Board of Education on Tuesday designated Attorney Irvin Slate Jr. to represent it in workmen's compensation cases.

An insurer will provide a total of $2 million coverage but the school district will be self-insured for compensation awards and benefits of up to $150,000 a year or $350,000 in three years.

It was noted that Paul Bowler, GCHS North teacher of socially maladjusted, and tentative budget action is planned in August.

visual coordinator, are leaving their positions due to accepting other employment.

Kathryn Tripp, 3019 Denver, was hired as a secretary in the accounting department.

Maurice Cowan, 3140 Carlson Ave., and William McBee, 3107 Maryville Road, were employed as custodians subject to physical examinations.

Decisions on extracurricular assignments were postponed until the July 18 meeting, and tentative budget action is planned in August.

VIRGINIA COLONY
On June 24, 1624, the Virginia Company was dissolved, and Virginia became a Crown Colony.

5,639 meals distributed in six months

Since January, donations to the St. Elizabeth Hospital Mobile Meals program total $3,920, accountant Sister Mary Frances reported last week. In the last six months, 5,639 meals were distributed in the Quad-Cities.

Cost of the meal is based on the recipient's ability to pay; the differential is assumed by the hospital.

Contributions included gifts from the Hospital Auxiliary, the Ladies Coler, the Quad-Cities Ministerial Alliance, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Protestant Welfare, St. John's Lutheran Church, Mrs. Mateosian, Nameoki United Presbyterian Church and St. Peter's Evangelical Church of Christ.

GC postal job test applications July 10

Postmaster Herbert A. Backs has announced that clerk-carrier examinations will be given and is urging that all those interested apply to take the job-related tests that can lead to Postal Service employment.

"We have not opened our register since 1975 and an examination of it has led us to believe that it is out-of-date. Many of the names on the register are people who have moved or for some reason are no longer available to take postal jobs," Backs said today.

"I do not want to give the impression we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," the Granite City postmaster said. "I anticipate approximately six to eight vacancies will occur in the next two years that will be filled by hiring people from our updated job register."

"We need qualified people who will be willing to accept employment. We want to offer people in the local community the chance to compete for these openings by signing up for and taking the exams."

The postmaster said the Postal Service established the policy two years ago of extending eligibility indefinitely (or those on the job register, because little hiring was being done).

"On Oct. 8, 1978, those who have been on the job register for more than two years will lose their eligibility."

"They will have to reapply to compete for a standing on the new register," he noted.

Postmaster Backs explained that those wishing to take the exam may apply by obtaining an application card from the main post office and submitting it to the Postmaster, Granite City, Ill. 62040 from Monday, July 10 through Friday, July 14.

The examination will be given in Granite City shortly after the application period closes.

Tavern vice raid recalled; operator jailed for silence

Madison County Sheriff John Maeras and his chief of field operations, Capt. John Cooper, refused to testify at a federal trial jury — and the former operator of a Madison tavern which allegedly housed prostitution accepted six months in jail and a $1,000 fine rather than testify — during Thursday's session of the trial of three former Madison policemen in Alton.

One of Thursday's topics was a raid at the tavern. The federal trial of Madison Alderman Ronald Grzywacz and Edward Goclan and Richard Kriesbok is on charges of racketeering and perjury. The three were Madison policemen during the period under scrutiny, 1970 to 1974.

Grzywacz and Goclan have resigned from the Madison Police Department and Kriesbok is under voluntary suspension during the trial. Federal Judge J. Waldo Ackerman announced in the absence of the jury Thursday morning that Maeras and Cooper had invoked their rights under the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and would not be testifying during the trial. The fact was kept a secret from the jury throughout the day.

By pleading their rights under the Fifth Amendment, Maeras and Cooper indicated they would not testify for fear of incriminating themselves with their testimony or responses to questioning.

No specific reason was given why Maeras pleaded the Fifth Amendment. Cooper's attorney, H. Carl Runge, told the Press-Record Cooper refused to testify because the U.S. Internal Revenue Service currently has a criminal investigation pending against Cooper for allegedly owed to the IRS.

"It is difficult for a policeman who has been in law enforcement this many years — to do this. But the government has him in a position where they are pressuring him from both sides. He has filed a petition in the U.S. Tax Court, protesting the tax assessments against him," Runge stated.

Neither Sheriff Maeras' attorney, former Circuit Judge

John Gitchoff, nor Maeras made themselves available for comment after Judge Ackerman announced the Fifth Amendment decision. Jenny Huey, former operator of Big Jenny's Little Place in Madison, who is alleged to have given payoffs to some Madison policemen in return for their "ignoring" happenings at the tavern, also asked to invoke her Fifth Amendment rights.

But Judge Ackerman gave her immunity from prosecution instead, at the request of the federal prosecutors.

When she still refused to testify, the judge told her she was no longer protected by the Fifth Amendment, since his grant of immunity had removed any chance of incriminating herself by her testimony.

Ackerman warned her of "grave consequences" if she refused to testify and she asked to consult her attorney, William Brandt of Granite City.

After a brief discussion Brandt announced she still would not testify. Ackerman cited her for being "in criminal, direct contempt," and sentenced her to serve six months in jail and pay a $1,000 fine.

Brandt said he felt the judge could only imprison her until the completion of the trial, and Ackerman told him he was welcome to research the case law on the sentence. The judge said he will hold a hearing on the sentence at the end of the trial, if necessary.

Jenny Huey was called by Judge Ackerman back into the courtroom about one hour later and was asked if she had changed her mind.

She said she had not, and Judge Ackerman said the sentence stands, but he would consider modifying it if she decides to testify.

"If you do not decide to cooperate until it is too late to testify in this trial, I will have no mercy for you," he asserted. Witnesses Thursday included Madison Police Detective Paul Bargiel, who testified he was "staked out" near Big Jenny's Little Place when Big Jenny's was raided on June 24, 1974.

Bargiel testified that about 30 minutes before the raid, he saw Grzywacz and Goclan enter the tavern's back door, stay there about one minute, and then return outside with Mrs. Huey and two women later arrested as prostitutes.

Bargiel said the five appeared to have been laughing and having a very friendly conversation, and Grzywacz, Goclan and then left the area.

Suspended Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Bull, who was the "inside man" on the stake-out that night, testified he saw Grzywacz and Goclan enter the rear door of the tavern and talk to Mrs. Huey.

Bull said he saw Mrs. Huey hand "something" to Goclan. They then went outside, the witness related.

Later, after Grzywacz and Goclan left the tavern, Bull talked to Mrs. Huey and an agreement was made that one of the women would "go in back" with him, for $20, Bull testified. He said he took the woman out the back door and to a small house behind the tavern, followed her orders to put the $20 on a dresser, and then allowed Bargiel and other police officers to enter the small house, where they arrested the woman. Assistance from Madison police was requested, and Goclan, Kriesbok and Thomas Voloski arrived to help the undercover officers, it was noted.

All then went back to Big Jenny's, where they arrested

Jenny Huey and a woman Bull said he had seen taking men "out back" while he was in the tavern. Bull, under cross-examination, testified he could not be sure what it was he saw Mrs. Huey give Goclan earlier in the evening.

Flexible, creative teaching encouraged

If educators are to be concerned with individual learning behavior among students, they must be flexible and creative in their teaching methods.

That's the opinion of many educators, including Dorothy Happel, visiting lecturer in elementary and early childhood education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The Office of Off-Campus Programs at the university will offer a one-week workshop in Teaching Competencies and Their Application (ED 567b-4) at North Elementary School in Virden Aug. 14-18 from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Happel will be the instructor.

Registration for the workshop is $50 and can be completed on the first day of class. Students who satisfactorily complete the course will earn four quarter hours of college credit. Class size will be limited to 25 participants, with applicants accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. During the workshop, participants will be introduced to many teaching styles and modalities. "Students learn through many learning styles," Mrs. Happel said.

The instructor went on to say that creativity is big in education. "With increasing technology in this country, students have to be able to problem-solve much more frequently. As things develop, answers must be found for new questions," she said. Workshop participants will be asked to examine their own teaching styles to ascertain what they are doing and how that might affect the learning of their students.

They will have to decide if they are providing an effective learning experience for all their students, Mrs. Happel said.

"Teachers are locked into their own classroom environments, so they may not have the opportunity to observe different teaching styles," she said. "There are many ways of teaching, the same concept — learning styles they may not have thought about."

Additional information on the workshop may be obtained by contacting the SITE Office of Off-Campus Programs at 692-3210 or the Department of Elementary Education at 692-3082.

GC aldermen confirm committee appointments in caucus session

RELEASED ON BOND
Vera Wright, 33, of 133 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, and Doris A. Williams, 24, of Apt. 74 Garesche Homes, Madison, were released at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday on $35 cash bond after being charged with theft. The pair allegedly stole several items from the National Food Store.

Confronted with the task of drafting a new budget within the next four weeks and solving a multiplicity of other pressing problems, Granite City council members took time out from their regular meeting last week to finalize the membership of operating committees so that business can proceed through official channels.

In a 15-minute caucus session called on a motion by Paul Bowler, alderman of the Seventh Ward — the aldermen decided that since none of them was dissatisfied with the committee posts in which they served during the past year, all would remain on the same committees throughout the current year which ends April 30, 1979. At the same time, council members agreed to establish an Ambulance Committee as an additional unit of the council's committee system by which it handles the bulk of city business.

Named to the Ambulance Committee were Aldermen Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward, Gerald Parmley of the Sixth Ward and Bowler.

Although the council settled the problem of new committee appointments during the caucus — a decision later confirmed in the regular council meeting — the aldermen are about two months late in establishing the committees. The council had 16 regular operating committees, which is increased by one through establishment of the Ambulance Committee. It also has a special Sick Leave Committee and a special Downtown Committee.

The chairman of each committee will be named by Mayor Paul Schuler under a legal procedure established by court ruling in the late 1960s after council members became embroiled in a controversy with the late Mayor Donald Partney as to how committees and their chairmen were to be appointed.

During the discussion over committee appointments, Bowler, who has been chairman of the Finance Committee

Finance, Aldermen Bowler, Warren Decatur and Fre "Pat" Schuman; ordinance Aldermen Roy Poulos, Charles Douglas and Mel Bailey; street and alley, Aldermen Clyde Boyd, Ronald Coleman and Lloyd Bailey; police, Everett Morlen, Gerald Parmley and Sam Whitmer; fire and water, Baker, Decatur and Morlen; lights, Margaret Nonn, Baker and Douglas.

Negotiating, Decatur, Schuman and Coleman; intergovernmental, Douglas, Glen Sprinkle and Bailey; planning and zoning, Bowler, Whitmer and Poulos; air pollution, Schuman, Sprinkle and Douglas; pollution plant, Sprinkle, Morlen and Mrs. Nonn; special sewer, Parmley, Coleman and Boyd.

Traffic, Whitmer, Decatur and Morlen; city hall, Sprinkle, Whitmer, and Parmley; sanitation, Coleman, Poulos and Mrs. Nonn; city buildings, Bailey, Boyd and Bowler.

The newly named ambulance committee will handle city business involving operation of the Granite City Ambulance Service through the Fire Department. Since the inception of the ambulance service in March 1977, this business has been handled for the most part by the traffic committee.

Avoiding vacation problems

Making arrangements for holding or forwarding mail prior to leaving home for vacations can save customers a lot of misery and inconvenience, the postmasters of the Quad-Cities reminded local residents today.

An over-flowing mailbox can be an open invitation to burglars, they said. Letting mail or newspapers pile up is advertising the fact that the house or apartment will be empty and unguarded.

Householders should ask a friend or neighbor to check their mailbox daily and to hold their mail until vacation's over, the postmasters said.

Or, if they prefer, they can ask the post office to hold their mail for up to 30 days, or to forward it to the vacation address.

The postmasters offered these additional tips for taking some of the worry out of vacation planning:

Vacationers should buy enough stamps for some postcards and other correspondence before they leave. They may not be conveniently near a post office later.

They should use sufficient postage — ten cents for postcards and 15 cents for letters weighing one ounce or less. For letters weighing more than one ounce, the additional postage is 15 cents an ounce.

Mail should be deposited, when possible, at post offices or in downtown, business district collection boxes, where more frequent pickups are made.

Travelers should be sure they have the addresses and correct zip codes for persons with whom they'll be corresponding. In fact, the postmasters say, it may be a good idea to write or type them on envelopes before leaving home, just in case. Envelopes and cards should also bear a return address.

And please write legibly, they advised.

Dr. James E. Aaron, coordinator of the SIUC safety center and of the industrial safety and hygiene curriculum, is announcing that Southern Illinois University at Carbondale has initiated a master's degree program in the area of industrial safety and health. The curriculum will enable an individual to obtain a master of science in education degree through the SIUC Department of Health Education's safety center.

Dr. Aaron comments, "It is my feeling the program as outlined will provide a level of expertise needed by those persons whose responsibilities relate to either safety or health. Interested persons may contact me by writing to the safety center or by calling me at 453-2080."

COST

EXPIRES

Upgrading all GC streets would cost $10 million

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer
The estimated cost of replacing, improving and otherwise upgrading Granite City's system of streets has been set at nearly $10 million as the result of a city survey of street conditions by the City Engineering department.

The total cost of such improvements was brought to $9,109,975 last week when Monroe Brewer, city engineer, referred to the City Council a supplemental survey report in which $2,325,553 worth of additional street projects were listed.

The report supplemented one given the aldermen in their June 30 council session. That report recommended repairs and improvements that would cost an estimated $6,783,422.

Brewer noted that while it is impossible to carry out such a program within any single year, or even several years, the reports can serve as a guide in establishing priority jobs over a 10 to 20-year span.

Preparation of the report — which involved on-the-site inspections of every street in the city — was prompted by a council request that it be informed of the condition of the streets and what would be required to restore them, or as many of them as possible, to a normal condition.

Such a request by the council resulted from the severe weather of last winter which caused many streets to crack, buckle and break up. This, in turn, resulted in a flood of complaints concerning the condition of city streets.

The first engineering report listed proposed projects in such of the city's seven wards, along with the type of work that needs to be done and estimated cost. Proposed street work ranges from patching and overlay resurfacing to curb and drainage installations and concrete paving.

The supplemental report submitted last week lists 12 proposed street improvement projects.

The largest of these calls for improvement of Post Road for a distance of 8,300 feet from Nameoki Road. The job would involve costs of $49,884 for drainage, $204,000 worth of curb installation, $382,775 in concrete paving and $49,884 worth of asphalt overlay resurfacing for a total project cost of $734,150. Two other major projects on the new list include Nameoki Drive from railroad tracks to Missouri Avenue for which estimated total cost of $686,596 calls for drainage installations, curbing and resurfacing.

The other proposed improvement of West Ponton Road from Nameoki Road to a point near Melrose Avenue at a total estimated cost of $248,042. This project also would involve drainage, curbing and resurfacing, as well as sidewalk installation at some points.

Council members, as they did with the previous report, voted to place the supplemental survey on file.

Alderman Sam Whitmer then asked Brewer if he had received listings from all of the aldermen concerning suggested street improvements in their respective wards to be inserted in the new budget which is now being prepared by the finance committee.

Brewer said he had received such lists for only three of the wards, and that he could not begin planning this year's street improvements until the council indicates by its budget or otherwise how much money would be available to finance the improvements.

Customarily, the aldermen of the seven wards agree upon a certain amount of motor fuel tax funds to be spent in each ward, then list priority street jobs that require approximately the amount of the ward allotments.

Whitmer said it was his understanding that the balance of the city's motor fuel tax funds, after allocation of payments for the city's share of the Maryville Road improvement and the city's annual road maintenance program, would be divided among the seven wards for street improvements to be undertaken this year.

The city's annual maintenance program has been set at $205,000 this year. In connection with that program, the council Tuesday night authorized the purchase of supplies and materials from six firms whose bids were opened prior to the council session.

Seek study of foreign ill. farmland ownership

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has asked the General Accounting Office (GAO) to include Illinois in a national study of foreign ownership of U.S. farmland.

In a letter to Elmer B. Staats, comptroller general of the United States, Percy said Illinois should be included in a proposed GAO study of nine states to determine the extent of foreign ownership of farmland.

"Because of the vital role Illinois plays internationally in agricultural productivity, along with the confirmed interest taken in Illinois farmland by foreign investors, I request that the General Accounting Office include Illinois in its upcoming investigation," Percy wrote.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry has just requested a study of foreign ownership of farmland in nine states — California, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Mississippi, Montana, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington — that represent the nation's agricultural regions.

Percy asked Staats to conduct a special study of Illinois if the state cannot be included in the previously-requested study.

Noting that 81 percent of Illinois' 35 million acres is classified as farmland, Percy told Staats that this state's rich farmland makes it one of the most attractive to the nation for investors seeking domestic and foreign agricultural markets.

"For the past three years, Illinois has been ranked as agricultural exporting state in the nation — $2.5 billion worth of commodities were exported last year alone."

"In addition, for the past three years, Illinois has ranked number one in the production and exportation of corn, soybeans and feed grain."

Percy said the GAO study should include but not be limited to the following five questions:

1. Of the 28 million acres of Illinois farmland, how much is foreign-owned?
2. In what counties of the state is the largest percentage of foreign investment taking place?
3. In what counties do most of the foreign owners reside or have citizenship?

Justice, Madison County style croak like a frog; Maeras, Cooper silent but 'speak' through interviews

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

The trial under way in Alton of three former Madison policemen has led to the question of whether justice in Madison County works differently than elsewhere, courthouse observers say.

On Thursday, Madison County Sheriff John Maeras and his chief of field operations, Capt. John Cooper, announced that they would, if called by either the prosecution or defense, claim their rights under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution to refuse to testify, unless the ground they could incriminate themselves by their testimony. However, both left, in the transcripts of the trial, copies of interviews they had with the FBI and the IRS. While denying wrongdoing in the transcripts, both made interesting statements.

In Cooper's interview with the FBI May 18, 1977, he was asked, "Sometime in 1974 or 1975, Cooper said he was approached by attorney George Pilcoff, who represented the Marco Polo Tavern.

"There had been prostitution arrests at the tavern. At this time, the state's attorney, Nick (Nicholas G.) Byron was out-town and Pilcoff came to Cooper and said at the hearing in court on the particular day, he should act like a frog.

"When Cooper asked him what he meant, Pilcoff said, 'Don't complain, we're going to get the charges dropped to disorderly conduct.'

"Pilcoff said, 'You can make a deal with these people. This case has been dragging on for one year, and they're not going to plead to prostitution charges. They were worried about a state liquor hearing.'

"Cooper stated he would not go along with this and told Nick Byron when he came to the town and Byron got upset."

The FBI report says of the interview, "Maeras likewise denied any involvement in alleged payoff schemes in his interview with the IRS."

"I'll be honest with you, working on the department, it's different than in the city."

"I relied solely on his (the late Capt. Dennis Nicholas) running the sheriff department for me because, like I say, I'm an arm and Byron got upset."

relations. I got to get out and try to sell myself, election after election."

The IRS investigator asked him, "So, Mr. Graywater or Mr. Cooper, or both of them, ever solicited and received any funds from any of the operators of, say, these houses of prostitution, limited to that, they did so without your knowledge. And as far as you know, if they got any money like that, they would have kept it themselves?"

Maeras answered, "Well, I don't—I don't think they would have done anything like that."

Cooper's interview with the IRS indicated that Sheriff Maeras, when he first assumed office, took all the high ranking officers, individually, for a ride in his private car.

"He wanted to know what was going on in the area, (particular) about prostitution, gambling and payoffs."

"Cooper told of prostitution at Maeras' and others. All except the Club 1 had been raided."

Cooper also told the FBI, according to FBI reports, that in about May 1971, "Deputy Hubert Hurst told Cooper two men were visiting towing firms asking information about who they should stop paying those individuals, because if there were going to be any payoffs, the pay would go to the sheriff."

Cooper reported to Nicholas, who was alleged to have admitted he and "Pete" (the operator of the service station that if anyone was to get payoffs, it would be the sheriff.

The report said Cooper told the FBI that "Pete" was "drunk at the time" and made the statement. It also said Maeras took no actions against "Pete" because "he felt his brother-in-law was nuts and really did not mean anything by it."

The FBI report of its interview with Cooper also indicated that when Maeras' Steakhouse near Alton was "busted," Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zek" Smith "alleged payoffs to deputies, specifically him."

Sheriff Maeras called Cooper in and accused him of payoffs and Cooper said it was "bull," it was alleged.

Just because his name was on the phone book, did not mean a thing," the report noted, adding that Cooper "Had left his business card" at Maeras'.

It also noted that the sheriff informed Cooper that Smith said if Cooper would resign, "they would forget the whole thing."

Cooper offered to take a polygraph test in early June, the FBI related from Cooper's testimony.

News notes

Figures completed Thursday showed May unemployment in Illinois and in Madison-St. Clair counties at 4.1 percent, compared to April's 5.5 percent statewide and 5.6 percent locally.

Mississippi River Festival attractions this week at StUE will include Willie Nelson, Emmylou Harris on Saturday, George Washington Jr. and Al Jarreau on Friday, Bob Seagars on Thursday, and the Memphis Jug Band on Wednesday.

Cooper also told the FBI, according to FBI reports, that in about May 1971, "Deputy Hubert Hurst told Cooper two men were visiting towing firms asking information about who they should stop paying those individuals, because if there

Chairman James Irving of the new Illinois Prisoner Review Board said during the weekend he had improperly released nearly 400 juvenile delinquents, paroling 90 percent of the youths appearing before it. While the law requires approval by three of the 10 board members, many parole orders were issued by one or two members only, he alleged.

The Quad-Cities were not affected, but water service in St. Clair County had to be reduced Friday due to youngsters opening dozens of fire hydrants to "test the heat" in East St. Louis.

The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. told Congress Saturday that pension programs for 1,300,000 persons are having financial problems and could collapse during the next decade.

An East-West Gateway Coordinating Council study showed Friday that most Illinoisans working in downtown St. Louis don't like the busier street bridge to go to their jobs. If Eads, King and MacArthur bridges close due to lack of funds for maintenance, Pontchartraine would become badly congested, the study said.

With retail prices rising 0.9 percent in May, Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal urged Thursday and Friday that a January 1979 raise in minimum hourly wage from $2.45 to $2.90 be delayed two years.

Missouri Governor Joseph T. Parnell on Friday named Or. Lee Malone, a union officer, to the Bi-State Development Agency board. St. Louis Mayor James S. Sullivan County Supervisor Gene McNary had urged that former Mayor John Pockler be appointed.

The St. Louis harbor between Eads and Poplar bridges will be closed to regular river traffic between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. tomorrow due to July Fourth fireworks and aerial events. Locks 26 and 27 will expedite pleasure craft movements by locking them through auxiliary chambers from 10 p.m. to midnight, tomorrow only. Priority will be given to northbound traffic at Locks 27 where during the evening.

About 350,000 state income tax returns remain to be processed, according to family failure to receive refunds.

The Illinois Board of Elections says State Comptroller Michael Bakalis' 1978 election fund records were kept sloppily but didn't violate the law. Bakalis is opposing Gov. James Thompson in the Nov. 7 election. The governor said Friday he still has some questions about allegations that he gave himself a loan from a non-political committee.

Edward Holder, 2472 Waterman Ave., was notified by police at 11 p.m. Friday that his 1973 Mercury Cougar had been found burned with an estimated loss of $2,760. The car had been left at Lant's Standard Service at 9 a.m. Friday for servicing and Holder alleged he was told to leave the keys in the car and park it next to the building. When he returned to pick it up at 3 p.m. the car was discovered missing.

Mrs. Adams dies here

Mrs. Essie Adams, 59, of Granite City, died at 7 a.m. Saturday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

She was born and had resided in East St. Louis until a year and one-half ago when she moved to the Quad-Cities.

Her husband, William Adams, died 10 years ago, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Boyer, preceded her in death.

Survivors include one son, the U.S. Navy and was a part time driver for a motor express firm in Granite City.

Survivors include one son, Ray D. Wentz serving with the U.S. Air Force in the Philippines; two daughters, Mrs. David (Robin) DeWitt of Batavia, Ill., and Mrs. Ron (Sherrill) Hurst of Lafayette, Ind.; a sister, Mrs. Sue (Lillian) Monon, Ind.; and two grandchildren.

Another sister, Mrs. Mrs. Shelton, preceded him in death. Arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Rites held for Francis Wentz

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 1, at a Granite City funeral home for Francis Raymond "Sarge" Wentz, 52, of 1728 Cleveland Blvd., St. Louis.

He died at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at his home. Mr. Wentz had a heart ailment and had been to see a physician last week, it was learned.

Mr. Wentz was a veteran of World War II and was a part time driver for a motor express firm in Granite City.

Storm hits area

A severe electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain and high winds swept through the Quad-City area shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday, knocking down trees, flooding streets and causing a number of power outages because of fallen lines.

The storm dropped 1.20 inches of rain on the area. Early morning street workers and power linemen, called out to repair damage, reported that some streets were running from "curb to curb" with water, particularly in the Namecki area.

Lionel Portell, Granite City street superintendent, said the storm occurred early enough in the morning that it did not affect most persons. He said while considerable rain fell, it drained off rapidly.

A spokesman at the Illinois Power Co. said falling limbs knocked down one major line in the Pontoon Beach area and that some customers were without service for about two hours.

Two men were arrested as police broke up a disturbance involving about 25 persons in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue at 10:45 p.m. Sunday.

Officers said members of the group were arguing and yelling at each other and police ordered everyone to go inside. As the group was dispersing, Gerald D. Brown, 34, Ellsberry, Mo., allegedly punched Bobby Brown, 25, of 2012 Missouri Ave., refused, Barnett was charged with disorderly conduct.

Beware the corn borer

By RON CORNWELL
County Farm Adviser

The infestation of European corn borer in Southern Illinois is very heavy this year.

A corn borer winters as a mature borer in corn stalks and other woody plants.

The corn borer pupates and normally emerges as a moth in early June. The moths lay eggs which produce the borer larva presently causing damage.

The mature borer is a flesh-colored with rows of brown spots. The head of the borer may be dark brown or black. The mature larva is about one inch long.

Young larvae normally found feeding in the whorl of a corn plant will be smaller, since the larvae normally moves into the stalk while small.

When the moths tend to stalk while small, they lay their eggs. Larval survival is highest and damage is greatest in taller corn.

Because of the wet weather this spring, many fields were planted late this year. 20 checking for corn borer, check the largest fields first.

The mortality rate of borers hatched out on small, young corn plants is very high. The closer the stalk is to coming into tassel, the higher the number of borers that live.

The reason for this difference in mortality is due to morphological and chemical changes within the corn plant. For practical purposes, corn borer can be ignored until a tassel ratio of 50 is reached.

Treatment may be needed when 50 percent or more of the corn plants show fresh whorl feeding and the extended leaf height of the corn plant is 36 inches or more.

Disregard the feeding on the outer older whorl leaves and the lower leaves when making counts.

If the fresh whorl leaves are clean, either the plant is not infested or the borer have already left the whorl. Once they tunnel into the stalk, control is not effective.

22,000 FIRE DAMAGE A fire in a front room of the home of Paul Haldeman, 19 Tulip Court, Pontoon Beach, did an estimated $2,000 damage. Long Lake Fire Chief Arnold Rutherford said a possible short in the wiring might have caused the fire. He said the fire was limited to one room, as a door was closed and the fire had burned itself almost out when firemen arrived.

AUTO BURGLARY Lloyd E. Clark, 2914 Buxton Ave., discovered that between 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Friday thieves entered his automobile and took two speakers valued at $60, and his wallet from the glove compartment with $45 in cash and personal papers in it. The thieves also removed the radio from the dash, but left it on the floorboard of the auto. The auto was parked in front of his home with the windows rolled down, according to police.

DISORDERLY CHARGE Robert Abney, 32, of 1302 21st St., posted $35 cash bond and was released at 1 p.m. Friday after being charged with disorderly conduct following a disturbance at 10:40 p.m. Thursday.

WEAPON CHARGE James W. Matheny, 60, of 2215 Lincoln Ave., was released at 3:30 a.m. Saturday on $15 cash bond following a disturbance at her home. She alleged War-mack pushed her, causing her to fall on the floor. War-mack was released after posting $35 cash bond.

51.500 BOND SET Larry Seagars, 22, of 1501 Edwardsville Road, was arrested at 2:20 p.m. Thursday on three warrants charging him with harassment by phone. The court set $1,500 bond. Seagars was released at 5:10 a.m. Thursday after posting $150 cash bond.

SCHOOL BURGLARY Thieves pried a steel mesh screen covering a window on the roof of Emerson School last week and kicked in the window. Nothing appears to be missing, according to the custodian.

Spring legislative session failed to deal with need for prisons and physical education and law school buildings

The Illinois General Assembly session that ended at 6:28 a.m. Saturday night—the clock was stopped at midnight Friday night—left the cupboard almost entirely bare for the Quad-Cities and Madison County.

Tax relief legislation was enacted but faces an uncertain fate due to concern over the cost and potential growth. Mine subsidence insurance legislation is expected to benefit the Quad-Cities, but many Southwestern-Southern Illinois projects failed to obtain authorization, including planning for an SIUE physical education-athletic-recreation building.

Also failing by the way was the Senate's failure to enact $1,118,000 in capital projects was a Law School building at SIUC, new medium security prisons at Hillsboro and Centralia, a Food for Century III project at the University of Illinois, other construction for state agencies and universities, and $20 million in aid in construction of jails, including $1,771,530 toward the cost of the new jail being built in Madison County.

The local university's physical education building, the jail funds and the other facilities remain technically alive but will not be acted upon until after the Nov. 7 general election. Deliberations will resume on Nov. 14.

The latest of the tax relief measures enacted was a real estate property assessment plan adopted on Friday by votes of 130-27 and 41-4, margins that could override if there is a veto. It was explained that if the measure is passed, home values from $15,000 to $17,000, taxes would be based on a value of $16,000, a saving of $70 on a tax bill of $1,120.

Previously enacted tax proposals would expand "circuit breaker" property tax rebates to all households with $25,000 or less yearly income, expand the help already accorded to senior citizens and the disabled, provide limited state income tax relief, and exempt purchase of manufacturing machinery and equipment from the four percent state sales tax over a six-year period to attract industry to Illinois.

Other state legislative developments in the closing days of the spring session included the following:

—Elementary and secondary school funding was set at $32 million more than what Governor James R. Thompson had said is available. Through his amendatory veto power, he can reduce appropriations. But $19 million of the increase relates to a complicated formula revision that would be difficult to alter, and the other $23 million rise is in grants that it would be unpopular to eliminate. Limits were set to Chicago, East St. Louis and Cairo schools.

—College and university operating funds were increased $79 million, matching the governor's budget request. Higher education capital projects totaled $39 million more than the governor sought, but, as noted, the spending authorization failed to pass.

—Most of the funds needed to continue the work of the St. Louis Metropolitan

Pre-Fourth events include 'rocking' evening, holiday festival

FOURTH OF JULY weekend festivities start to really get going as the Outlaws, with special guests Black Oak Arkansas, take the stage at the Mississippi River Festival on Saturday night. Above left . . . Hughie Thomasson, lead guitarist and singer for the Outlaws, runs through several lead riffs during the group's encore, "Green Grass and High Tides," to top off the evening.

IT WAS HIGH NOON on Saturday and the temperature already was well into the 90s. But many shoppers didn't let that stop them as they turned out for the third day of a three-day Downtown Granite City sidewalk sales event. This view is looking southeast on 19th Street near the Carp's store. (Press-Record Photo)

MARRIED. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall Dennis prepare to cut the wedding cake for more than 300 guests following their marriage at Suburban Baptist Church. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Ella Mae Watts, 3148 Davis Ave., and Kenneth J. Watts of Granite City.

Dennis-Watts nuptials at Suburban Baptist

Tall white tapers in candleabra, white satin bows on the pews and a trinity candle at the altar decorated the sanctuary at Suburban Baptist Church for the wedding on June 10 of Miss Kathryn Jo Watts and Edward Marshall Dennis.

The Rev. Harold Garrett, pastor, heard the couple repeat their vows at 7 o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ella Mae Watts, 3148 Davis Ave., and Kenneth J. Watts of Granite City.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dennis, 240 Jeanette Drive.

Kevin Koonz provided the music for the double ring ceremony. Selections included "We've Only Just Begun," theme from "Love Story" and The Lord's Prayer.

Matron of honor to the bride was Mrs. Peggy C. (Flach) Holston. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Lou Metcalf, cousin of the bride, and Miss June Bosworth, the groom's cousin.

The flower girl, Julie Simon, was escorted by the ringbearer, Benji McConnell. They are a cousin and nephew of the bride, respectively.

The groom chose Fred Englin as best man, Dennis Latnette of Cahokia and Gary Jarman of Troy were groomsmen.

Heading the usher corps were Bernard "Jitty" Winkler and Kenny Weizer.

The candles were lighted by Miss Michelle McConnell, the bride's niece, and Kathi Teitloff. Attending the guest book was Miss Sherrie Simmons.

For her wedding, the former Miss Watts selected an A-line gown of white nylon organza created with an Empire bodice, a high neckline and brief sleeves of Venice lace.

Narrow pink satin ribbon was inserted in lace at the waist and along a lace panel above the flowing hemline. A bow of pink satin and lace accented the back of the gown.

She wore a cap of floral lace with pink satin ribbon accents to secure a fingertip veil of imported bridal illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of white and pink roses, white carnations, stephanotis with touches of ivy.

The bride attendants were dressed alike only in mint green, pink and blue.

Their full-length gowns were fashioned of lace tiers with narrow spaghetti straps at the shoulders and chiffon capelets. They held bouquets of daisies and carnations in pastel shades, with streamers in colors to match their dresses.

The flower girl wore a sleeveless yellow dress created of lace tiers on the long skirt and a small ruffle at the neckline. She held a white plateau basket filled with blue, pink, green and yellow daisies and carnations with yellow streamers attached.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Watts selected a long trim of pink polyester made in A-line style, with Venice lace gown at the V neckline and a chiffon capelet around her shoulders.

Mrs. Dennis chose a beige gown trimmed in Venice lace at the V neck and a long chiffon capelet, also in beige.

More than 300 guests greeted the newly married couple at a reception in the Madison Fireman's Hall, held immediately after the service.

The former Miss Watts was graduated in 1975 from Granite City High School South and is employed at Walker's Jewelry in Downtown Granite City.

Her husband is a 1968 graduate of Triad High School at St. Jacob, Ill. He works at American Steel Foundries here.

After a short wedding trip, the couple is now at home at 298 Jeanette Drive.

Edwin Hessel Srs. to mark 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin (Cecilia) Hessel Sr., 4416 Highway 162, will celebrate the 50th year of their marriage at a reception Sunday, July 9, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Bethel Evangelical Free Church, Stratford Lane and Maryville Road.

Relatives and friends of the honored guests are invited to attend the golden anniversary celebration, family members said this week.

The reception will be hosted by the honorees' sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Hessel, who moved from Granite City to Litchfield just three weeks ago, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hessel Jr., of Sunnyvale, Calif., also former residents.

Seven grandchildren of the honored couple will be assisting at the gala event.

Mr. and Mrs. Hessel were married on July 8, 1928, and have lived their entire married life in the rural Granite City area.

Mrs. Hessel, 78, was born in a log cabin, located between Stallings School and Highway 157, in the area through which Highway 162 is constructed.

Still an active farmer, Mr. Hessel has operated farms in the Long Lake-Stallings area all his life.

For some years, he also was employed at Smith Rolling Corp., formerly in Stallings, and is a former member of the Illinois National Guard.

Mr. Hessel organized the first Boy Scout troop in Stallings and the scouting unit - Troop 23 - still functions as a unit today.

He also was president of the original Stallings School Board before it was absorbed into the Stallings School and was active in Red Cross work during World War II.

Both are charter members of Bethel Evangelical Free Church.

Miss Paula Jones and Timothy Hill are wed

In a candlelight ceremony, Miss Paula L. Jones became the bride of Timothy J. Hill on June 10 at 4:30 in the evening at First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Marvin Peters officiated at the double ring service before an altar adorned with baskets of greenery and white candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel L. Jones, 3005 Indiana Ave. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill, reside at 1310 Twenty-Second St.

Illuminating the church aisle were burning tapers in white candelabra, decorated with white flowers and white daisies. The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father.

She chose a pure white gown of organza over tulle. Pearls and sequins graced the Chantilly lace yoke, outlined in crystal pleating. The natural waistline was accented with satin ribbon, ending in a bow and streamers at the back.

Her fingertip veil of Chantilly lace was worn with a blue and white veil and secured to a camelot cap, trimmed with seed pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow roses, daisies, white carnations and baby's breath, with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Gary Whitson was the matron of honor. Julie Daniels and Teri and Beth Anne Harp, cousins of the bride, were the bridesmaids.

Laura Heath served as flower girl with Christopher Hill, the groom's nephew, as ringbearer. The bridegroom selected Donald Byrd, his brother-in-law, as best man and his brothers, Mark, David and Donald Hill, as groomsmen.

The honor attendant and the bridesmaids were dressed alike in long gowns of mint green, representing the Alton GOP Women's club, League of Republican Women, Lewis and Clark club and the Troy Republican Women.

Plans were made to hold the annual County Republicans dinner-dance Sept. 16 at the American Legion Hall, Edwardsville, when GOP candidates in the November election will be introduced.

The Granite City GOP Women will hold their annual picnic July 11 in Wilson Park from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Mrs. Kohlbrecher said.

The local club also agreed to host the Oct. 16 fall meeting of the Madison County Federation of Republican Women at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Schulte of Edwardsville, county president.

At the session were representatives from the Alton GOP Women's club, League of Republican Women, Lewis and Clark club and the Troy Republican Women.

pink, yellow and blue chiffon over tulle. Lace decorated the bodices and chiffon capelets covered the shoulders.

Each carried a bouquet of tinted daisies, carnations and baby's breath with streamers in colors to match their gowns.

A long peach chiffon over tulle dress, trimmed in lace with peach satin streamers at the waist, was worn by the flower girl, who held a white wicker basket of tinted daisies and white carnations.

Mrs. Jones chose a long gown of rose jersey, gathered at the bodice, with a capelet of tiered chiffon.

The bridegroom's mother selected a pastel pink, beige and blue gown, full length, belted at the waist.

Both mothers had wristlet corsages of pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

Valerie and Chrissy Barboro, the candlelighters, wore long dresses in yellow and orchid shades.

Immediately after the ceremony, guests were entertained at a dinner-dance at the Elk's Lodge in Granite City.

Organist for the ceremony was Jack Jenkins, who played "Evergreen," "If I'm Blessed One" and "One Hand, One Heart."

Serving as ushers were Jay Hill and Tony Barboro. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at their home.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks region of Missouri, the couple now is at home in Granite City.

The former Miss Jones was graduated from Granite City High School South. Her husband, also a South High graduate, is employed at Nesco Barrel Co.

The wedding of Miss Terri Lynn Wood and Thomas Clinton Lawson Jr. was solemnized in an evening ceremony on May 26, at the Church of Christ, 29th Street and Washington Avenue.

Mr. William White officiated at the double ring service at 7 o'clock. A reception followed in the church hall.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joann M. Long of Maryville, and a granddaughter of Anton Leone, also of Maryville. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Lawson Sr., of Granite City.

Members of the bridal party included Miss Toni Jo Wood, the bride's sister, and Michael Nance, who served as maid of honor and best man, respectively.

Ushers were Buddy Lawson, a brother of the groom, and Don Leone, a cousin of the bride.

A program of wedding music was provided by Alan Bogovich during the service.

Area GOP Women attend luncheon

Several members of the Granite City Republican Women's Club attended a luncheon meeting Thursday at the Ramada Inn, Fairview Heights, to greet Mary Jo Arndt.

Mrs. Arndt, president of the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs and a member of the National Board of Republican Women, was the luncheon speaker.

Earlier in the week, Mrs. Edna Kohlbrecher, president of the Granite City GOP Women's club, and Mrs. Gladys Newman attended a meeting of the Madison County Federation of Republican Women at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Schulte of Edwardsville, county president.

At the session were representatives from the Alton GOP Women's club, League of Republican Women, Lewis and Clark club and the Troy Republican Women.

Here's the latest on the new conference

By PETE HAVES
Press-Record Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — It looks more and more as if Granite City's two high schools will finally be getting into an interscholastic athletic conference. In fact, it's almost assured.

Cahokia last week became the third member of the Southwest Conference to announce its intentions to withdraw from that league after the next school year. That will leave the loop with only four teams. The Illinois High School Association (IHS) only recognizes conferences with five or more teams. The SWC is in trouble. It could be gasping its last breaths next school year.

All that leads to speculation that a new conference will be formed. Representatives from both Granite City North and South, along with those from Edwardsville, Cahokia and Belleville Altogether have met several times to discuss the possibilities of a new loop. According to several people in on those skull sessions the feeling is positive.

"I can't speak for the school board, of course," said North Athletic Coordinator Bryan Wilkinson, "but I tend to think that people here will really be in favor of it."

James Dumont, principal of Granite City South, was invited to attend the last meeting, held June 20 at the Round Table Restaurant in Collinsville. "The meetings was set up by Dick Ford (athletic director at Edwardsville)," said Dumont. "I was the only administrator there."

"We talked about the advantages and disadvantages of forming a conference and how willing each of us were about joining one."

"I think the outcome of the meeting was helpful to Cahokia's people, who hadn't yet made up their minds as to whether or not they were going to drop out of the SWC."

There were representatives from Edwardsville, Belleville Altogether, Cahokia as well as Dumont, Wilkinson and South Athletic Coordinator Roger Smith at the meeting.

"I feel there are several advantages belonging to a conference," added Dumont. "For one thing, it's much easier to set up a schedule. The bulk of your schedule is already made up so that you don't have to go searching around for teams to play."

One member of the SWC which announced its withdrawal this year, but hasn't been mentioned in talks of the new conference is Collinsville, the first to drop out of the league.

Most of the representatives involved in the new conference talks don't want Collinsville in it. "Collinsville is not in our plans," said Cahokia Athletic Director Larry Taylor.

"It's just a little big. They have about 2,800 students, and I don't think we could justify having Collinsville in a conference without planning to include the others."

It's tourney time!

GRANITE CITY — They're having a softball tournament this week in Granite City.

"They" are, or rather IS, the Granite City Park District. The July 4 weekend is the time of the annual tournaments in both women's and men's divisions.

Play started Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and won't be over until late tomorrow (Tuesday) night.

It's all-star week in Bloomington

The Class AA South appears strong ...

BLOOMINGTON — A sharp-shooting Class AA South squad will open fire upon the North team at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 8, at Illinois State University's Horton Field House in the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association's fourth annual All-Star contests.

With better than 50 percent shooting as a squad, the South is looking to combine the power of Lincoln's 6 foot 6 inch, 210-pound forward Chuck Verderber with the refined guard work of Collinsville's 6-5 Kevin Stallings.

Both are first five selections on the all-state team picked for the IBCA by the Chicago Tribune.

Verderber and Stallings combined for over 80 points between them with averages of 25.8 and 24.5, respectively. Verderber, the Kentucky-bound athlete who was one of the most sought-after products in Central Illinois, also leads in rebounding with 16 per game. Stallings, headed for Minnesota, is one of three Collinsville players on the squad.

South head coach Lee Cabutti of Champaign Central will try to average a 14-point loss suffered by the South last year. That decision handed the North a 2-1 edge in the series.

Dishing the ball off to the big men up front will be such guards as Peoria Manual's John Washington, who had 262 assists, and Hillsboro's Dyke Burkett and Danville's Matt Houpp, who combined for 213 assists last season.

Houpp leads the trio with a 21.2 scoring output while Burkett and Washington hit 18.7 and 18.

In the middle, the South is limited to two listed centers — 6-7 John Relebraydic of Collinsville and 6-9 Bryan Leonard of Belleville East. Relebraydic is a fourth five IBCA pick while averaging 20.7 points with Leonard checking in at 18.8.

Three other guards complete the squad. One is Bloomington's Dodie Dunson, who helped his team to a regional title with a 10.2 scoring average and 6.7 rebounds. Craig Kopleman of Pekin and Von LeQuatte of Herrin also have impressive credentials of 19.1 and 14.7 in scoring and 7.3 and 5.2 in rebounding, respectively.

Three alternates are available to replace any of the top 12 who are unable to play. They are forwards Gary Larimore of Pekin and Larry Thomason of Limestone, and center Mark Pitt of Mattoon.

Assisting Cabutti with the coaching will be Bob Avery of Mattoon and Bill Anderson of Rantoul.

The A game will precede the AA clash at 5 p.m.

A limited supply of reserved balcony seats at $4 and an ample number of unreserved end seats at $3 are available. They may be ordered at the Bradley University Athletic Office in Peoria. Remaining tickets will be on sale at ISU's Horton Field House beginning Wednesday, July 5.

KEVIN STALLINGS

But the games aren't the only activities

Illinois State University is home this week to the state's top 48 high school basketball players, who will engage in the fourth annual Illinois Basketball Coaches Association All-Star contests.

The players will be kept busy between planned activities and gearing up for the July 8 showdown when the Class A and AA North-South squads square off at Horton Field House.

Both squads will scrimmage on Thursday and Friday.

In addition to the talent that will be displayed on the basketball court, qualified basketball speakers will be in the lineup for the IBCA clinic.

Included in the list is Illinois State University's new basketball coach, Bob Donevick. Topics also will be heard from Class A state champion head coach Bob Bogle of Nashville and his Class AA counterpart, Bob Basarich of Lockport Central.

Basarich is also a 1968 Illinois State alumnus and a former Redbird golf captain.

Also to be heard from are Dennis Bridges, local coach of Illinois Wesleyan University's basketball team; Dave Bliss, Oklahoma University's Gene Plustone, St. Joseph's High School; and Bob Gregurich, Havana High School.

The all-star players and their parents will be guests at a dinner Tuesday evening at the Bloomington American Legion Hall to tip off the all-star week.

Guest speaker will be George Raveling, head basketball coach at Washington State University.

Inter-squad scrimmages will be held Thursday and Friday. Thursday night will have the A North against the AA South while the A South clashes with the AA North.

The 24 minute, two-period sessions will be repeated the following night, with the A teams playing the AA squads from the same region.

Ron Herrin, head basketball coach at Olney High School, is IBCA president and Ron Ferguson, athletic director at Bradley University, is executive secretary.

Head coaches of the all-star teams are: Class A North, Will Slager, Chicago Christian; Class A South, Jim Byassee, Mounds-Meridian; Class AA North, Ron Nikcevic, LaGrange (Lyons); Class AA South, Lee Cabutti, Champaign Central.

Their assistants are: Class A North, Don Greenfield, Timothy Christian, and John Petty, Chicago Latin; Class A South, Darrell Burd, Piassa Southwestern, and Wallace Bobo, Mounds-Meridian; Class AA North, Bill Gleason, Loyola Academy, and Lynn Deason, LaGrange (Lyons); Class AA South, Bob Avery, Mattoon, and Bill Anderson, Rantoul.

The South has won all three previous Class A all-star games, 83-75 in 1975, 82-61 in 1976 and 86-83 in 1977. In Class AA, the North won 96-90 in 1975, but the South claimed a 96-82 win in 1976, while the North retaliated, 111-97, in 1977.

Film on bowling champion to be made in Alton area

A major motion picture about a man from Alton who became the U.S. bowling champion will be filmed in Illinois starting Aug. 1. Lucy Salenger, managing director of the Illinois Film Office, said last week that shooting of the 20th Century Fox movie, "Stormy City Bowl," will take about four weeks.

Inter city all-star game washed out

MARYVILLE—The Illinois Intercity League all-star game scheduled for yesterday in Maryville was postponed because of weather conditions. No make up date has yet been selected.

New conference

 The "others" are Belleville East and West, Alton and East St. Louis, the four survivors in the SWC.
 All five schools involved in the talks are 4A schools, where it comes to IHSAA post-season football playoffs. If Collinsville were included, it would probably push the conference to 5A, the biggest in the playoff system. Conference champions, automatically get a berth in the playoffs. Independents must have outstanding records and receive "at large" berths.

The Cahokia decision to withdraw was pivotal, according to Edwardsville's Ford. "Everybody was waiting to see what Cahokia did," he said.
 The Cahokia school board, after voting to withdraw Monday night, also appropriated $100 for a good will deposit for the new conference.

According to Dumont, the new conference probably wouldn't be able to begin actual league play until the 1979-80 school year. "That's because of the contracts and the fact that the schools who have withdrawn will still be members of the SWC for at least another school year."

The next meeting concerning the new conference has been scheduled for this Thursday, July 6, in Edwardsville.

Hanley says cancer plan unrealistic, inflationary

The head of a major area chemical company called Thursday for an orderly, effective plan to control workplace exposure to suspected carcinogens, but charged that a government proposal offers only a simplistic, unrealistic and inflationary approach.

John W. Hanley, chairman and president of the Monsanto Co., spoke at a Washington hearing regarding a proposal by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration that would group chemicals into categories according to results of laboratory tests for carcinogenic (cancer-producing) potential.

OSHA says its system of generic categories based on predetermined scientific criteria is necessary to avoid chemical-by-chemical regulation.

The Monsanto executive said there are "constructive alternatives" to the OSHA proposal that would be "far more effective in helping bring about a safer workplace."

He said OSHA's "broad brush approach" would add to the public's confusion on the subject of cancer, could unnecessarily trigger the removal of products from the marketplace, would require vast industry resources, and would increase automation — thus reducing employment.

The proposal, he added, would foreclose further scientific investigation.

"We should make certain our decisions on workplace exposure are made in a prudent manner, and — if we must err — it should, of course, be on the side of safety," he said.

"But we should not set our sights on an unrealistic and unachievable goal, which is what the current proposal tries to do. The issues are too complex to allow simplistic solutions."

He said that government, along with individual companies involved, has a legitimate role in protecting workers from occupational hazards and from carcinogens in the workplace.

"It is not this goal with which we disagree," Hanley said. "It is the methodology being proposed to achieve it."

He described elements of an alternative proposal:

"First, intelligent priorities should be set. 'Not all carcinogens pose the same degree of risk for humans. To assume that materials are carcinogenic in alphabetical order is absurd."

"Materials should be regulated according to their potency, not according to an arbitrary and artificial scheme."

Hanley said the exposure level should be reduced to levels required by prudence and safety, "not to levels which are attainable simply because a certain technology exists and without regard to the costs involved."

"Finally, we should make absolutely certain we do not foreclose scientific investigation into the causes and mechanisms of cancer."

"Science is evolutionary," Hanley concluded. "As we gain knowledge, we must be able to apply it, and that should hold true for government as well as industry."

AYES ORDER
On June 22, 1977, President Hayes issued Civil Service orders prohibiting office holders from taking part in the management of political organizations or election campaigns in the country.

Buses cooler, but . . .

The air-conditioning systems on Bi-State Development Agency buses are functioning better now than a year ago, according to Executive Director Barry M. Locke.

Although there have been occasional malfunctions during the current period of extremely hot weather, he said, the 996-bus fleet has "performed well, overall" during the season's severest test of the air-cooling equipment.

"All of our rush-hour buses have functioning air-conditioning units when they leave the garage," Locke said. "But the average bus is on the road from four to eight hours a day, and breakdowns occur."

"When a defective unit is reported to us via our system-wide radio net, we attempt to replace the bus immediately with another air-conditioned bus, if one is available. But we will not inconvenience our passengers by simply canceling a trip due to inoperative air-conditioning."

Locke noted that Bi-State is currently operating 382 new buses delivered last year, permitting the retirement of older coaches which had to be used during 1977 with less reliable air-conditioners.

Bi-State was a pioneer in the field of providing air-conditioned buses, offering St. Louis the first air-cooled vehicles in the early 1960s and maintaining the largest air-conditioned fleet in the world for many years before such equipment became standard in other major cities.

"We have a crew of 21 assigned full-time to the task of keeping air-conditioning units in working order," Locke said. "Extra shifts are scheduled during the summer months at our main shops, and overtime assignments are made as needed at our five garages. We are overcoming the problems earlier this year than in the past, and we anticipate a generally cooler ride for passengers this summer."

Locke emphasized that passengers can share the responsibility for maintaining cool bus interiors. "We are still plagued with incidents of riders opening windows on buses with functioning air-conditioners. This only makes the cooling apparatus work harder, a situation which can lead to a breakdown."

"We ask everyone to help us in this area, because we are faced with the necessity of opening and closing doors many times each hour to board or discharge passengers, particularly on lines with heavy ridership. Up to one-third of the cool air in the bus can be lost each time a door is opened, and open windows compound the problem."

Bi-State can only store about 10 percent of its buses indoors due to space limitations, and environmental regulations prohibit "idling" buses in the yards to maintain air-conditioning during the hottest part of the day before rush-hour buses are sent out for their afternoon runs.

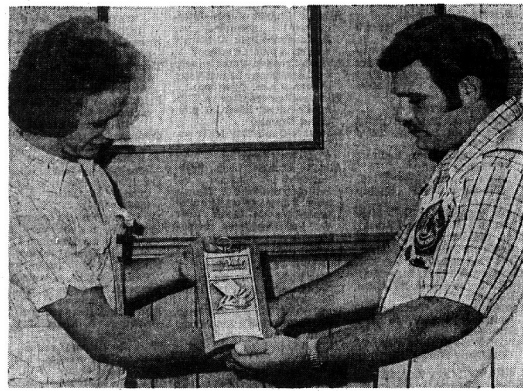

"We have not resolved all of the cooling problems," Locke admitted. "We won't be satisfied until all 996 of our buses have working air-conditioners at all times."

Generic drug law in effect

A new Illinois law that went into effect Saturday permits generic substitution of drugs with permission of the prescribing physician and agreement of the patient, if the price of the generic pharmaceutical is lower than the brand name drug to be substituted.

Prescription blanks now have boxes for the physician to indicate generic substitution is permitted or not permitted.

If permitted, the pharmacist may dispense the generic substitute as and if provided for in the state's formulary of generic drugs of chemical equivalency and identical dose form.

Stores report they are stocked with a broad formulary of available generic pharmaceuticals.

"Brand name drugs" are prescription pharmaceuticals produced under trademarked names which are protected from competition by patent for a period of 17 years.

After that protected period, other qualified pharmaceutical manufacturers are able to produce drugs of the same chemical structure and dose-form known as "generic drugs."

The generic equivalents do not carry the original trademark names; they may or may not bear a brand name.

They are always labeled by their common or chemical component name. For example, the generic name for aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid.

In 1967, seven percent of prescriptions were generically written by doctors.

In 1977, 12 1/2 percent of prescriptions were generically written by doctors, and estimates show that in 1978, 26 percent of all prescriptions could be filled generically.

By 1980, 50 percent of the current top 100 prescription drugs will be off patent.

Advocates say the customer will benefit through significantly lower prices. Probable minimum savings are in the 15 percent range on some prescriptions, with most in a 25 percent to 50 percent range, and some over 50 percent, they contend.

Opponents of the generic substitution law say pharmacists will have a higher mark-up percentage over cost on generic drugs.

One drug firm responds, "Of course it is true — and in no way a logical indictment of the generic substitution law or the pharmacist — because the cost of the drug is only one of several cost factors."

"Also determining prices are pharmacist salaries, rent, utilities, additional inventory, etc., so a 50 percent lower ingredient cost cannot automatically produce 50 percent savings on the total prescription service. The important point, however, is that the consumer does save, and saves significantly."

"This necessarily higher percentage mark-up also has the positive effect of giving pharmacies economic incentive to be positive about generics to stock the added pharmaceuticals, to promote the generic idea to customers, and to help get the generic program activated and viable."

"It is known that in the few states with generic substitution laws requiring total pass-through of cost savings to consumer, the percentage of prescriptions filled generically is low, and the consumer benefit thereby restricted instead of aided."

"It is further expected that the normal competitiveness in the pharmacy area will tend to narrow the margins, as has been the history of the prescription field."

"According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. city average consumer price index for all items at Dec. 31, 1977, was 186.1 percent of the 1967 average."

"The prescription price index was 125.8 percent of the 1967 average. Thus, prescription prices over the 10-year period increased only 30 percent as much as the all-items total."

"Pharmacists have obviously done an extraordinary job of holding down their part of national health care costs, and the widening availability of generic dispensing should strengthen their ability to deliver health care services at low cost to the public."

Work program at Nameoki
The Madison County Manpower Development program has notified the Nameoki Township highway department that the summer employment program within the township can be administered under the direction of the highway commissioner, Frank Mebel, it was reported at a regular meeting of the Town Board Monday night.

The summer employment program provides work for youth, assigned to road maintenance jobs. The township now has about 20 persons working under the summer schedule.

Nelson Hagmauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, in a letter read to the Town Board, defended the work the county park and recreational department has done at the Nameoki Park No. 8 located on Highway 21, formerly known as Whittell Park.

Hagmauer told the board that he feels great improvement had been made on the park tract which recently has been described by some residents as a "swamp" and a place that breeds mosquitoes.

His letter was in response to one by Supervisor Harold Davis asking the county park and recreational department for help in maintaining the park, after a resident reported he had gone through the area in a canoe.

The board confirmed an agreement between the township and the Long Lake

McBride says merger better than bankruptcy

President Lloyd McBride of the United Steelworkers of America declared Thursday that Justice Department approval of the merger proposal of Lykes-Youngstown Sheet & Tube and LTV-Jones Laughlin Steel "is a far better situation than the bankruptcy of the nation's eighth largest steel company."

"We have not seen the details of the department's ruling but the merger approval is good news if the department at the time mandates the merged corporation to take every possible step to preserve the jobs and longtime security of our members employed by Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company," McBride said.

The USWA president, formerly director of the Granite City sub-district of the union, recalled that he had urged the Justice Department to obtain a consent decree from the merged corporation not to permanently close any substantial producing unit of any of its plants, without first getting permission from the Justice Department.

McBride said the union also had recommended that the department get the merged corporation, now the fourth largest steelmaker, to agree to reopen the Campbell (Ohio) Works, including the Strothers plant.

Whether these were obtained or not, we do not know at the moment," McBride said Thursday in Pittsburgh.

"It is likely that we may have additional comment after we become fully acquainted with all the details of the Justice Department's decision."

Add photos to collection

SIUE is the recipient of a grant totaling $325 from the Illinois Arts Council for the acquisition of nine photographs through the Permanent Collection Purchase Program.

Niles Mason, curator in the School of Fine Arts and Communications at SIUE, is director of the program. This is the third year SIUE has received financial assistance of this kind from the Illinois Arts Council.

The Council came up with a plan allowing institutions and associations to add to their collections of works by Illinois artists and the institutions benefit from the program," Mason said.

The four works by Kenneth Josephson entitled, "Chicago, 1976"; "Wyoming, 1971"; "Hollywood, 1975"; and "Hollywood, Sweden, 1975."

Five unframed photographs by Gail Rubini also will be secured by the University. The works will be on display at the university after their purchase.

Postal exams in Madison

Madison Postmaster William F. Clinton has announced that clerk-carrier exams will be given during the month of July and urged that all those interested apply to take the job-related tests that can lead to Postal Service employment.

"We have not opened our register since 1973 and since examination of it has led us to believe that it is out of date, and that many of the names on the register are people who have moved or for some reason are no longer available to take postal jobs," Clinton said.

"I do not want to give the impression that we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," the postmaster said. "I anticipate approximately three vacancies will occur in the next two years that will be filled by hiring people from our up-dated register."

"We need qualified people who will be willing to accept employment and want to offer people in the local community a chance to compete for these openings by signing up for taking the exams."

The postmaster said the Postal Service established the policy two years ago of extending eligibility indefinitely for those on the job register because little hiring was being done.

"On Oct. 8, 1976, those who have been on the job register for more than two years will lose their eligibility. They will have to re-apply to compete for a standing on the new register," he said.

Postmaster Clinton explained those wishing to take the exams may apply by obtaining applications from the Madison Post Office, Sixth and Madison Avenue, Madison, 62201, between July 10 and July 14. Applicants will be notified of time, date and place to take the examination.

"Putting It All Together"

New approach to property tax seen as essential here

By Ed Armstrong —
SPRINGFIELD — As a rose grower and former president of the American Rose Society, John Lauer ought to be well acquainted with thorns.

As a former legislator, he probably has had his share of thorny problems. But now he has taken on an assignment to work full-time on what may be the thorniest problem in all of state and local government: how to revamp the tax system, particularly the local property tax.

Either Lauer likes a supreme challenge, or Gov. James Thompson is mighty persuasive, because Lauer quit the General Assembly to take the tax study job, which bears the title of assistant director for property tax research in the Department of Local Government Affairs. Of all our state and local taxes, the property tax is the oldest and probably the most complicated. It dates from the time when most wealth was in the form of lands and physical possessions and when values of property were generally low. It also dates from a time when there were only a few units of local government — a county, a township, a school district and perhaps a city or village, and each had only one or two funds for which taxes were collected.

Taxes weren't being collected for sewer districts, fire protection districts, park districts, airport authorities, community college districts, mass transit districts, etc. There weren't special funds for public employee retirement. Government doesn't do all kinds of things it does today.

Assessment was done mostly by township, and there was little concern about uniformity in township assessing practices. No one added multipliers to complicate the system.

With government involved in so many aspects of our lives today, the situation is far different. Dozens of taxing bodies add their demands to property tax bills. Because the state hands out some money — such as school aid — to local governments on the basis of what those governments get from property taxes, the state tries to enforce uniformity in assessments. Therefore, the Legislature has directed that assessments be at one-third of fair cash value if a county fails to assess at that level, the state issues a multiplier which must be applied to all assessments to bring them to the uniform level. Persistent inflation has been the bane of the property tax system. Real estate prices have increased even faster than most other prices in the last decade; farm prices particularly have soared. This has had a variety of effects.

Assessors have had difficulty keeping up with rising property values. Some made little effort to keep up; as a result, taxes in those counties didn't go up much for a few years. Then when the multipliers were applied realistically, tax bills ballooned. — Most local governments received heavy inflations of property tax revenue, but not all were helped by it. For example, downstate school districts lost large amounts of state aid funds when their local tax revenues increased. In addition, there were situations where tax rate increases had been approved by voters. On the basis of existing assessment levels, these increases were needed, but when assessments were increased, taxpayers found the rate increases costing them more dollars.

Property owners were hit with tax bills that in many instances outstripped increases in income. This was especially true for farmers and for many who have a large share of their assets in real estate; for example, one who owns a large home but has a relatively low income. This seems more than enough of a tangle for a tax study to try to unravel, but there are further complications. What happens to the property tax impacts on other taxes and on what governments are able to do?

There are federal funds made available to local governments on a matching basis. If the local government loses part of its property tax income, it may not be able to match federal funds, so it loses part or all the money from that source.

Local funding is a patchwork, with money coming from such sources as sales of the state, income tax and motor fuel tax collected by the state, as well as the property tax and federal grant allocations. If property taxes are reduced or if a ceiling is placed on property taxes, preventing them from increasing to keep pace with inflation, adjustments will have to be made in other taxes just to enable governments to keep present commitments of public services.

What is fairest? Should an added burden be put on the income tax? On the sales tax? On cigarette, liquor, utility, entertainment, inheritance tax, etc.?

I've already mentioned the relationship of the local property tax and state school funding. If the state share has to go up because property receipts go down, from what taxes does the state get additional money? Or do you replace the property tax loss with a local income tax?

There are no easy answers, but taxpayers more and more are demanding answers. With federal income taxes and Social Security levies multiplied over the years, with state sales and income taxes taking a bite out of everybody's dollars, the rising property taxes strike many as a last straw.

There has been talk of tax revolt and some faltering steps have been taken in that direction in Illinois. A Band-aid approach is being taken now in the Legislature with proposals to grant property tax relief through an expansion of circuit-breaker concept and homestead exemptions.

Comment—Are we trying to tax ourselves out of existence?

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
All across the nation the California tax revolt continues to shake our political institutions. The vote dismembering California's property tax was an outcry by long-suffering and overburdened taxpayers over continuing costs that pay more and more, not only in property taxes but most other types of taxes too.

The two-one vote of Proposition 13 raises serious problems for California's Gov. Jerry Brown. President Carter and all other individuals seeking election to public office. At long last Americans are beginning to check the records of candidates and voters to determine whether the big-time spenders or whether they will be frugal in handling taxpayers' money.

It now is clear that Gov. Brown does not have an assured victory next November when he faces challenger Evelyn Younger. If this tax revolt continues for any considerable period of time, as it is likely to do, the effects of it might carry on long enough to put President Jimmy Carter and the Democratic Party in a perilous position in 1980.

A Los Angeles metropolitan newspaper, one of the networks conducted a poll of 2,482 people as they left polling booths, wherein they were asked whether they supported the Jarvis-Gann measure. The poll showed 18 percent for the measure. The message was loud and clear and it is one that even the politicians at last have been compelled to acknowledge.

Asked which services they would be willing to have the government eliminate to replace rock-bottom funds previously provided by property taxes, 69 percent replied, "Welfare."

Other services they felt could or should be eliminated were: 18 percent for education; 18 percent for parks, museums and recreation; 21 percent for public transportation; 18 percent for schools and 17 percent for libraries. Only 5 percent listed reductions in police and fire department services.

Few of us realize the monster which welfare has become.

Today, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), which administers most federal welfare projects, costs $182 billion a year, nearly $182 billion. We now spend considerably more on HEW than we do for all defense programs.

HEW administrators more than 400 programs. Some 115 million Americans are recipients of HEW funds and services in one way or another. To administer this vast sum there are 1,125,000 bureaucrats, all assisted by costly and complicated computer services.

So top-heavy have we become as a nation through our overstaffing and outstaffing of government at all levels that when we send $1 of taxes back to HEW we are fortunate if a state in the end receives back 25 cents of that dollar.

During the past year our HEW costs have gone up nearly $20 billion. The department now has the third largest budget in the world, following those administered by the governments of the United States and Russia.

Welfare and HEW expenditures are equal to approximately the sums spent by all 50 of our states for state government.

HEW pays out $500 million every day. As we become more and more a welfare state and move farther toward socialism, the expenses of HEW go up, up, up. At last hard-working Americans have discovered that through legislation such as Proposition 13 they can fight back and reduce governmental waste and expenditures, and in the end, reduce their taxes.

All of the leaders of communism and Marxism have stressed over the years that the power to tax is the power to destroy and they have preached the gospel that "the capitalist system will eventually tax itself out of existence."

Many of our politicians seem bent on making their prediction come true.

Voters to act on tax amendments

By RAY SERATI

SPRINGFIELD — When the current Legislature opened a year ago, several constitutional amendments were proposed. But the voters next November will be able to voice their opinions on only two of them.

Both these proposed amendments deal with property taxes. But neither will affect the individual taxpayer, but rather personal property taxes virtually have been abolished.

One proposed amendment seeks to eliminate the constitutional requirement to remove personal property taxes on corporations by next year. The abolition of the corporate personal property taxes was written into the 1970 Illinois constitution. However, the section dealing with the corporate personal property taxes called for some type of a replacement tax.

This tax or revenue appeared to pose a large problem than originally had been anticipated. What could be done on the local level to replace the tax if it were removed left some officials with a large problem, especially school districts. In some instances the personal property tax on the business remains to be one of the top revenue sources for local governments. At one time a study showed that personal property taxes paid by corporations accounted for about 15 percent of the estimated $17.7 billion raised locally by all property taxes.

So rather than try to devise some type of a replacement tax or form of additional revenue the Legislature has decided to let the voters make a choice.

This choice will be on the Nov. 7 general election ballot. If the voters decide in favor of the referendum, the corporate personal property tax will continue as it presently is levied. If the voters turn down the amendment there is still some legislation (HB 2418) that could be enacted after the November election that also could do the job of replacing the tax going. If the amendment is turned down, the Legislature is going to be pressed to act fast in this area.

In all there were some 10 tax-related amendments introduced in the General Assembly. Two identical ones were approved but only one will be presented on the November ballot. A flip of the coin decided that the one going on the ballot is HJR-CA21, sponsored by Rep. Ed McCreary, R-Kankakee.

The second proposed constitutional amendment (HJR-CA29) going on the ballot, exempts veterans organization and some charitable organizations from the payment of property taxes.

At the present time the Illinois constitution exempts property belonging to agricultural and horticultural societies and property used for school, religious and cemetery purposes. The proposed amendment would extend this exemption of property to include congressionally chartered veterans' organizations.

In all, there were about 100 constitutional amendments proposed for the current General Assembly. However, only two made it prior to the deadline of May 1.

Two of the proposals that caused a great deal of debate dealt with merit selection of judges and the election of a state school superintendent. The proposed amendment on the merit selection didn't get out of the House. However, the House and Senate did exchange amendments on the election of a state school superintendent. The one in the House ran into trouble, but through parliamentary procedures there is still one on the Senate calendar. Theoretically, a flip of the coin will decide in the fall session.

'If they thought taxation without representation was bad, they should have seen it with representation . . .'

Congress ignores tax bite impact

By JOHN PINKERMAN

The New York-based Conference Board, one of the nation's most reliable economic study organizations, reports that an average American family has had to boost its pre-tax income by at least two-thirds to maintain a 1970 standard of living.

The squeeze is in inflation and rising taxes. Inflation has many causes. One of the most dangerous ones is a government that spends more than it takes in. The federal government annually did not vote expenditures greater than income there would be no inflation of the dollar.

However, at the same time that the Conference Board was issuing figures on inflation, the House of Representatives was passing a bill that would increase federal income taxes by $1.4 billion.

Two hundred two Democrats and one Republican defeated by a vote of 201 to 174 a GOP House resolution that would have trimmed spending by $11.8 billion and budget authority by $2.4 billion (from a $104.4 billion budget). The Republican move would have resulted in a reduction in the high federal tax bite that the Conference Board finds alarming.

President Carter, who is politically inspired, decided not to veto a bill that wastes $3 million of tax money on two of those useless bouillabaisse conferences (the time in humanities and the arts) that fill a Washington social calendar each year.

A third rather contrary development makes a hero of sorts of Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. He told Congress he did not want the extra $3.6 billion that welfare programs would have to pay on adding to his budget.

However, thrift is not the nature of the game. Congress or the White House these days and so long as it isn't, the Conference Board will continue to show statistics that prove Washington politicians regularly run off the American taxpayer.

On the refusal of Congress to go along with Republican efforts, Rep. Delbert Latta of Ohio, top GOP member of the Budget Committee, noted that "Americans are being asked in arms over heavy tax burdens and inflation." One lonely Democrat, Rep. Otis

G. Pike of New York, supported Latta with first inflation by pouring too much into social programs and this (the GOP resolution) is the right message to send to the American people."

The warnings failed, however, defeated by a majority of congressmen devoted to the giveaway social programs of the day.

President Carter's change of mind on the $3 million conference item may have been an even worse insult to taxpayers. The $3 million waste is a pet project of House Democratic whip John Brademas, Indiana Democrat. Mr. Brademas' advisers persuaded him to change his mind — so as not to offend Brademas, whom the President has named later in some tight vote on other legislation. "Annoying Brademas was not worth the $3 million," was the word from Hamilton Jordan, top White House political aide.

It is a sorry state of affairs and typifies the conduct of a sorry lot of public officials in Washington when $3 million is not worth saving. Let alone, $2.4 billion.

The Conference Board says the actual experience of the typical American family in the 1970s has been to just break even. In Congress, Mr. Delaney of Texas and Mr. Carter need a clear message — and the voting booth is the most effective place to deliver it.

Economists hail Proposition 13 victory

By DONALD C. BAUDER

At last, the U.S. economy can enjoy a ray of sunshine. Overwhelming passage of the Jarvis-Gann initiative in California — plus the momentum rolling in many other states — makes it possible for the most crocheted bear of economic bullism, at least for the long term.

In recent years, the intellectual case has been building inexorably. Conservatives, monetarists — and increasingly, moderates and even liberals — have come to realize that the only major long-term negative hanging over the U.S. economy has been excessive government.

As long as the government's percentage of gross national product (GNP) was 35 percent and growing, it was inevitable that the economy would eventually stagnate and crumble, as it has in Great Britain (where government is 60 percent of GNP).

As long as the government was deliberately creating inflation by printing money to pay its bills, the U.S. economy was locked into the inflation-recession cycle — and the only time it was possible for the economy to be healthy was when the government was deliberately creating deflation by printing money to pay its bills, the U.S. economy was locked into the deflation-recession cycle — and the only NOTICE OF LOCATION
AND DESIGN APPROVAL
Notice is hereby given to all interested persons that approval of the location and design of the proposed improvement of
Illinois Route 162 and County
Highway 35 and Mochingbird
Lane, one mile east of Granite City in Madison County, has been requested from the Federal Highway Administration.
The proposed improvement consists of the realignment of County Highway 35 and Mochingbird Lane to a common intersection point on Illinois Route 162 and the widening of existing Illinois Route 162 to accommodate the channelization for turning lanes. A painted median will be provided at the four legs of the intersection. New traffic signals will be installed at the intersection. The acquisition of approximately 3.5 acres of new right-of-way is necessary.
Affected property owners have been contacted about the project. If no public hearing will be held.
Maps, sketches, and other information pertaining to the determination of the location and design of the improvement are available for public inspection at the District 8
Planning Office, 4220 West Main Street, Belleville, Illinois.

Juicy perfection

Split roasting is one of the best, and oldest methods of cooking meat. As the roast turns, it bastes itself for juicy perfection.

SIRLOIN SPIT

- 2 tbsps. olive oil
- 2 tbsps. minced parsley
- 1 tsp. anchovy filets
- 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 2 lbs. sirloin tip roast
- 1 lemon

Combine wine, oil, parsley, finely minced anchovies, nutmeg, salt and pepper in plastic bag. Add beef and marinate, refrigerated, overnight. Turn occasionally.

Balance beef on rotisserie spit, fasten forks at each end. Cook eight to 10 inches above medium coals about 1 1/2 hours. Baste occasionally. Cook to desired doneness, checking internal temperature with meat thermometer. Serve with lemon wedges. Serves four to six.

First tax refunds would be in 1979

Property tax relief legislation sent to the governor's desk last week, HB 3279, proposes tax help to millions of Illinois households on 1977 property taxes paid in 1978, advocates point out.

Refunds would be made in 1979.

The measure, originally sponsored by Rep. Daniel M. Pierce (D-Highland Park), and supported by the Illinois Public Action Council, received House approval last week and was sent to the Senate, where it was amended and returned to the House for concurrence. Final vote on the bill was 89-63.

The final approval by the Illinois General Assembly, Democratic governor nominee Michael Bakalis said, "grants property tax relief to nearly two-thirds of all Illinois households."

"State government has reaffirmed its sacred commitment to ensure the economic well-being of the citizenry. It is sworn to serve. That commitment is the cornerstone on which our system of government rests."

As amended, HB 3279 provides "circuit breaker" type property tax refunds to households earning up to a maximum of $25,000 annually.

Under the existing law, only senior citizens and handicapped individuals are eligible for this kind of tax relief.

With the Senate amendments, the program would be phased in over a four-year period. Once fully phased in, the average property tax refund for eligible individuals would be $140 to $150 per year, Bakalis estimates.

Under the plan, any taxpayer with a gross annual income of $25,000 in 1979 would receive a rebate of 12.5 percent of the amount his property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of his income.

In 1982 and thereafter, the rebate would be for 50 percent of the excess over 3.5 percent of income. The maximum rebate for this class would be $650 less two percent of household income.

Bakalis contends that, through the Senate amendments the first-year cost of the bill has been reduced from about $80 million to $33 million.

As to how the program would work, Bakalis gave the following examples: A household with an income of $10,000 a home value of $32,375 and a property tax bill of $777 would receive a rebate of $199 per year after the four-year phase-in period was complete.

A family with an income of $22,500, a home value of $41,625 and a property tax bill of $990 would receive an annual rebate of $105 after four years ($26 the first year).

The legislation incorporates and expands coverage for senior citizens and handicapped individuals covered under the existing statute. These individuals, who earn less than $10,000 per year would be immediately eligible for a rebate of 100 percent of the amount their property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of their income.

In 1979, they would be eligible for a maximum rebate of $650 less four percent of their household income. In 1980, the maximum rebate would be $650 less three percent of income and, in 1981 and thereafter, $650 less two percent of household income.

For example, a retired senior citizen with an annual income of $9,500, a home worth $32,375 and a property tax bill of $777 would receive a rebate of $250 the first year and $444 after the four-year phase-in period is complete, Bakalis said.

"Bill 3279," Bakalis said, "is responsible tax relief. If signed into law, it will provide property tax refunds to a majority of Illinois families — homeowners and renters alike."

Boating — a way of life

By Curt Gowdy

It's difficult to put boating into a single activity classification. Do you call it a "recreation"? How about "hobby"? Because a boat usually serves as a means to enjoy various activities, on the water and dockside, one label doesn't cover boating.

Many boating activities are physical sports. For example, you know it when you fight a blue marlin for a couple of hours ... or when you take three spins around the lake on a slalom ski. Powerboat racing can be exciting and physically demanding, too.

Sometimes boating activities become spectator sports. There are those I know for whom boating represents a hobby. They like to tinker, to install accessories, to clean and polish and to become experts in boat handling, navigation and knowledge about everything that's nautical.

They enjoy working on their boats in the back yard or reading about electronic gear in a boating magazine from their favorite easy chair.

For others, it's strictly a get-away-from-it-all leisure time recreation. They just like the feeling of being isolated on their personal, portable island.

And, for many, boating means travel. It's their transportation up and down a waterway and their overnight accommodations.

There's one couple I know who wouldn't need an engine in their boat. To them boating is strictly social and they're happiest entertaining friends aboard without even leaving the dock.

What it all adds up to is a lifestyle that represents different activities, different risks to different skippers and crews. Maybe that's why pleasure boating has remained a popular sport-hobby-recreation over the years.

Q. I sometimes worry that although I am a well-educated person, I do not feel that I have a great deal of financial awareness. Do you have any suggestions that might be of help to me and other women in my position? — J.R.

A. The following is a list of do's and don'ts that should be of assistance to you: 1. Consult an expert to help set your financial goals. 2. Set up a budget for living expenses, that includes an emergency and miscellaneous fund. 3. Establish the habit of saving — start a savings account even if it is only a small amount each month. 4. Take the time to make out a will. 5. Familiarize yourself with financial words and phrases. 6. Establish credit in your own name, whether married or single. 7. Make certain you have life and disability insurance on yourself, especially if you are head of household. 8. Get into retirement and medical plan where you work or establish one on your own. 9. Find out what services are available at various banks and savings and loans. Select the ones that have the most to offer you. 10. Consider taking a class on managing money. Don'ts: 1. Do not go to someone whose advice will enrich his or her pocketbook at the expense of yours. 2. Do not be afraid to learn more about your financial situation. When it comes to money, ignorance is not bliss. 3. Do not make hasty decisions. Take the time to evaluate the pros and cons of any financial decision. 4. Do not turn to friends for advice. Learn from their mistakes or successes, but don't depend on them for financial planning. 5. Do not forget to read all parts of a contract and remember, by law, you have three business days (excluding Saturday, Sunday and holidays) in which to cancel any signed contract for goods.

She's a dolly

Sexy DOLLY PARTON, everybody's choice for the next big superstar, is anxious to branch out to TV. She doesn't want a series, Dolly confides, but she'd star at a special — particularly if the network would let her do it in the place she loves best, the Great Smoky Mountains. Dolly's just a mountain gal at heart. And to remind herself, every so often she invites the whole Parton clan — parents, all sisters and brothers, and their assorted offspring — to dinner. And Dolly does the apron to make them baked duck, desserts and all the trimmings.

The Partons say she's the best cook they know.
